Ristuccia complains of delays. . .

by Arlene Surprenant

In a well-planned bid for public support, businessman Bernard Ristuccia requested a special selectmen's meeting Monday night to review the Wilmington Ice Arena's revised plans and expedite moving ahead with construction. In order to do this, Ristuccia needs to gain approval from various town boards to change his original seating plan from 1,200 seats to 3,500-6,000 seats.

Ristuccia, along with his son Joel and area architect Daniel Tully of Melrose, spoke before an overflow crowd of various town board members, hockey and figure skating club representatives, numerous concerned residents and media people from Channel Seven and cable news programs.

Tully opened the meeting with some examples of sports arenas his firm designed for New England colleges.

The Ristuccia Memorial Rink, so named in honor of Ristuccia's wife, who recently died of cancer, would most closely resemble the hockey arena at the University of Maine, he said. Tully added that the building he's designed is "totally different" from the original plan, as far as encompassing significant structural changes and size. Though there's been a delay, construction will move ahead as soon as he receives necessary approval from the different boards and a building permit from the building inspector. Then work can be completed within 10 or 11 months.

When asked by resident Vaughn Surprenant why there should be an seating expansion at all as this is causing further delay, Ristuccia explained that he hopes to make an extra $200,000 or $300,000 a year to turn over to a cancer clinic. It is Ristuccia's desire to turn over any profits above the rink's operating costs to a cancer clinic in the Merrimack Valley.

Ristuccia, introducing himself as "not a Jekyll and Hyde," explained how the whole idea for an ice arena came about. The idea originated with Rocco DePasquale, who thought it would be a "good thing to do" for the town. Ristuccia said he could have put 35 to 40 houses on the land and make a lot of money, but he didn't.

"I was selfish," he stated. He wanted townspeople to "enjoy a rink and have a great time" so he went along with DePasquale's idea.

To date, he has spent $300,000 preparing the land, which Tully agreed is excellent from a structural point of view. Now he "doesn't understand" what's holding up construction.

Echoing other residents' feelings, Finance Committee Chairman Dennis Volpe was confused on the need for the meeting. He couldn't understand the "urgency" and "fanfare" of the meeting, as it was really up to the various town boards to handle everything.

A member of the board of directors of youth hockey concurred, saying "let's stop the politics" and get on with the necessary procedures. As of November, he said, "our skaters have no ice."

The hitch seemed to be that before town board members could approve site plan changes, the architect had to submit the revised plan to the boards. And this was not done.

According to Tony Gentile, chairman of the planning board,

"we've seen nothing about a revised plan." He went on to say that this is the first time he's heard about a seating capacity expansion. He suggested Ristuccia present his plan to the town engineer and his board and they'll review it, using the same format they always use.

Building Inspector Charles Lawrenson agreed with Gentile saying "I don't know your plans." If Ristuccia obtained approval from the town engineer, planning board, and the water and sewer commissioners, he could obtain a permit, Lawrenson added.

Tom Roussell of the conservation commission suggested appointing a coordinator on behalf of the town for "funneling the input" of the various boards. This should be done to protect the interests of the townspeople, he said, and should not be appointed by Ristuccia, as suggested by Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski.

Selectmen Chairman Jim Stewart tried to facilitate matters and pin down a timetable for the various boards to review the plan and give their approval.

Tully, clearly anxious to move ahead, agreed to submit his revised plan in a day or two. He told Lawrenson he will build the arena "precisely to your specifications." He is now designing the building's roof structure and hopes to pour the foundation soon.

"This round robin is amazing," was the angry cry of high school Athletic Director Jim Gillis, a member of the Wilmington Arena Authority. Explaining that he represented a special interest group, Gillis went on to say that he's anxious to expedite the rink's construction as there's been enough delay. In an emotional speech, he pointed out that he cares about the town but, "this is

. . . New plans not yet filed

No plans for the larger skating rink, being proposed by Ben Ristuccia off Main Street, have been filed with the town engineer nor with the Wilmington Planning Board.

Ristuccia Monday night told the meeting in the Town Hall that he wanted quick action by the town boards for his new proposal for a skating rink to seat about 7700 spectators.

To get quick action the plans must be approved, by the planning board and others. There is a 35 day delay in the process while the plans go before other boards and commissions.

The Wilmington Planning Board will not meet on the night of Nov. 6 because of the national election. It seems the earliest that any plans can get to that board will be November 13.

Two spectators were at the planning board meeting Tuesday night, in case the plans were to be discussed. One was prepared to oppose the proposal and lives in the area off Glen Road that is nearest to the site of the rink. The other was prepared to speak for the rink "at any price."

Neither man had an opportunity.

Chronology of ice arena, from planning board

The members of the Wilmington Planning Board grinned about the events of the meeting in Wilmington Town Hall, held on October 29, while they discussed it in their October 30 meeting. It would seem, the members felt, that the reason the skating rink had not been constructed could be laid at the feet of the planning board.

Chairman Anthony Gentile did have a prepared statement for that meeting, which however, he did not get an opportunity to read. It was a report to the town manager of the history of the hockey arena rink as it was affected by the actions of their board and a history of the town meeting and other actions.

May 15, 1984: Planning board held its mandated public hearing on Article 1 — request to rezone to General Business for land off Main Street for the arena. The article was for the special town meeting.

May 21, 1984: Planning board recommended approval to rezone to General Business hockey site arena. The proposed site of the hockey arena presented was 23,000 square feet, to be constructed on approximately six to seven acre site with presumably a seating capacity of 900.

June 26, 1984: Planning board received board of appeals Case 54-84 and application of Albert Reidy to acquire a variance from Standard Dimensional Regulations (Table II) in sufficient frontage and to acquire a special permit in accordance with Section 6.4 zoning bylaws, parking and site design standards, in particular Section 6.4.1.1 (h) (number of parking spaces).

June 28, 1984: Letter to board of appeals stating the planning board has no objections to granting requested variance or

Two precincts to vote at new town hall

When Wilmington voters go to the polls on Tuesday, one-third of them will be voting at the new town hall, the former Glen Road School.

Town Clerk Patty Lynch said that the polling place for precincts one and five will be at the town hall, but only for the presidential election. The change was made due to the expected high turnout of voters. In other elections, all voting takes place at the high school gym.

The two precincts have a total of 3530 voters. Precinct one is in the area of Silver Lake and Shawsheen Avenue. Precinct five includes much of Glen Road, and the Tewksbury end of Salem Street. Mrs. Lynch said that all voters in the two precincts will receive post cards notifying them of the change of location. Voters who receive such a post card should make a note of it, and not mistake it for a political advertisement.

Voters from the other four precincts will vote at the high school, as usual. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Lynch said she was hoping for a 90 percent turnout. Wilmington now has 10,053 registered voters.

She said that she had not received word on whether exit polling would be conducted. If such polling is done, voters are not under any obligation to talk to the people taking the poll. Mrs. Lynch said she hoped that any such polling would not result in a situation where the election was called before people on the west coast had finished voting, such as happened in 1980.

On Wednesday, November 7 at 8 p.m. the Wilmington Newcomers & Neighbors Club will sponsor a Greek cooking demonstration presented by John Stathos of Somerville. The evening's program will be a Greek evening meal consisting of the main course and dessert.

The event will be held at the First Baptist Church, Route 62.

Wilmington has the beginnings of a "superior" computer system with a projected figure of approximately 135 computers throughout the school system, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert Horan and high school math teacher Benjamin Levy. These computers, including Apple II E's, Acorns, IBM Personal Computers, and a Digital Mini Computer, are versatile, can be upgraded, and won't become obsolete.

Speaking at last Wednesday night's school committee meeting, Horan, Levy, and Shawsheen School Principal Bob Barrett gave a complete outline of computer use at the elementary, high school and intermediate levels.

Horan, in charge of the overall computer program, explained the type of computer instruction students are receiving. Grades five and six are getting logo programming instruction, a program originally developed at MIT and good for this level as it allows the child to control the computer.

Grade seven students are gaining basic skills and learning how to make the best use of the computer through a keyboarding course while grade eight pupils are sitting in on computer literacy classes. And at the high school, such courses as computer basics and computer language are being offered.

Saying computers should be used "as a classroom tool to improve learning and the skills of youngsters," Barret explained the two ways of using computers at the elementary level. Schools could either utilize a computer room setup, where pupils come in as a class to work. Or they could put a computer in each room to be used individually as a supplemental tool. Barret favors the latter, especially since most schools don't have the extra room. He would like to see a 30-to-1 student to computer ratio in the future.

He also prefers logo to basic programming as the "direction we should take" because logo programming is well structured and develops thinking skills, which is the "ultimate goal of teaching."

Raytheon employees honored

Ten Tewksbury residents and two from Wilmington will be among the 858 employees who this year completed 25 years of service with Raytheon Company. The long service employees were feted at a special appreciation dinner in Boston on October 3.

Those from Tewksbury include: Raymond DeStefano of Kent Street, Robert Hoefer of Ferncroft Road, Leon Kennett of Florence Avenue, Richard Kiernan of Wedgewood Road, Arthur Peters of Leighton Lane, Rae Sutherland of Cobleigh Drive and Elaine Gordon of River Road.

Wilmington residents honored are: Joseph Cormier of Park Street and James Murphy of Wildwood Street.

In his experience, Barret finds that elementary teacher interest varies. Some teachers use computers well and some are a little hesitant about using them at all. He said he had anticipated setting up teacher training workshops in computer usage by October, with a delivery delay in some Apple computers, he is now looking toward a December target date.

Teacher training in computer use and equal computer preparation for all students were two of the major concerns addressed by the school committee.

Chairman Bridget Zukas said she was impressed by the number of computers, but was "not impressed" with the lack of in-service teacher training. She felt there is a definite need for someone of Barrett's or Levy's caliber who would be available to train all district teachers. This, hopefully, will be budgeted for in the future.

Levy agreed that one of the areas needing improvement is teacher training, especially in using a lab setup. And a lot of teachers, he said, don't have the extra time necessary to take courses. However, others are already "hooked," even to buying their own computers for home use.

According to Horan, teachers are already getting some training through courses at the Merrimack Education Center, Saturday computer programs, and logo training programs.

Tony Accardi and Bob Peterson both felt there is a need for "uniformity of learning," with similar computer goals and guidelines set up in each school in the district.

The system has plenty of equipment. Accardi acknowledged, but it hasn't defined the direction in which it's going.

Barrett answered that a good curriculum is one which the teachers write up themselves and he hopes this will be done with computer courses.

In addition to computers for classroom use, Horan also explained that at the high school there is an Apple in the guidance office for students working on their SAT reviews and a Digital mini computer with 15 terminals in the administration area for multiple use. There is also a "sophisticated" Corvus Network system set up which allows computers to interact in a number of rooms.

In looking ahead, Levy would like to see pupils using computers during study halls and learn how to use them in "new and exciting ways." He hopes to form a computer club at the high school to involve the entire student body. There is already an adult education computer class being taught which shows "we're trying to do as much as we possibly can."

The assistant superintendent feels it would be beneficial to have separate micro-computer labs and to expand the networking system to include the second floor of the high school. The architect of the renovation project is aware of this need and is already putting it in his plans.

Committeeman John Brooks said that his sub-committee for Excellent in Education is already looking at one new requirement for graduation. The committee plans to require one year of mandatory computer instruction for every high school pupil. With town manager approval, it is also looking into the possibility of locating a cable television studio in the high school with the completion of the renovation work.

Other business conducted during the meeting was tabling the posting of the superintendent's position until Oct. 30, updating the School Committee Policy Book to conform to the state policy book, and checking into a proposal to change a bus route on Nassau Avenue for the safety of kindergarten children.

Sculptor and his work

Tewksbury sculptor Mico Kaufman's latest work, "Homage to Women" was unveiled on Friday in the Market Mills Park in Lowell. Kaufman is shown in front, being interviewed for television.

Kaufman sculpture

"Homage to Women" is the title of this Kaufman sculpture, unveiled last week in Lowell.

Prototype

Kaufman is now working on a sculpture for the Tewksbury Teachers Association, shown here in prototype. The sculpture will be of Helen Keller and her teacher, Anne Sullivan. It is being prepared in conjunction with Tewksbury's 250th anniversary.

Miceli to address need for warning signs on rivers

State Rep. Jim Miceli will address the need for legislation mandating the marking of dangerous "roll dams" on the state's navigable rivers when he speaks at the next meeting of the Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team (SWEAT) on November 8.

The general public is invited to attend the meeting at the Tewksbury Rod and Gun Club starting at 8 p.m.

According to SWEAT member Rick Barry, Miceli is prepared to sponsor legislation in December that will ask the state to clearly mark so-called roll dams on navigable rivers. The measure would warn the recreational canoeing public to not attempt flowing over one of the dams.

A tragic accident claimed the life of Scott Braciska of Wilmington last summer when he and a fellow canoeist attempted to go over one of the roll dams on the Shawsheen River during a SWEAT sponsored race.

Although the dangerous spots along the Shawsheen and other major rivers in the state are clearly marked, some other rivers are not, says Barry. And, according to Barry, their is currently no state law requiring the marking of them for public safety.

A roll dam, placed in the river to slow the flow of water during peak flooding periods, can be dangerous. The water going over the dam recirculates and creates a powerful whirlpool like action on the bottom of the concrete spillway that can pull down almost anything that enters its path. "It's almost impossible to get out of one without assistance," says Barry.

Dear Larz:

Isn't it a shame that our senior citizens have to solicit funds from any "agencies"? Too bad the town and the people of Wilmington cannot take care of their own.

I am seriously thinking ahead of "getting off" when the kids leave." I, for one, do not want to have to beg, plead, or rely on anyone for any of the "comforts" that these people are entitled to. Why, if it wasn't for them and their votes years ago, the industry and agencies in this town would not even be here.

Some of us young uns weren't even married yet. The seniors voted for them.

People of Wilmington — get smart!

Where are we going to go in 20 years?????

Sincerely,

Vera A. Pozzi

Dear Larz:

Veterans' Day observance will be held Sunday, November 11, 1984, precisely at 11 a.m. This was the hour the Armistice was signed on the 11th month - 11th day - at 11 a.m. in 1918. The War to end all Wars - it was not to be.

The Congress recently passed legislation calling this day Veterans' Day in honoring all fine men and women who participated in other wars to keep America free.

In keeping with this fine tradition, the Tewksbury Patriotic Activities Committee extends an invitation for participation in the program.

The ceremonies will take place at the Tewksbury town common at the veterans' memorial site. Brigadier General Eugene McAuliffe of the Army National Guard will be the principal speaker, who happens to be a resident of Tewksbury for the past 26 years.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Conlon, Chmn.
Patriotic Activities Comm.

Dear Larz:

On November 6, Tewksbury voters will vote whether to fluoridate all of their water supply. Presently sections of East and North Tewksbury receive fluoridated water at optimum levels from Andover and Lowell.

The State Department of Public Health has strongly recommended that the fluoride compound, sodium fluoride, not hydrofluosilicic acid, be used. Sodium fluoride does not increase the present water acidity, but rather helps to decrease the water acidity.

Fluoride from sodium fluoride is the same fluoride ion already found in Tewksbury's well water at 0.1 ppm (10 percent of optimum) and in most foods we eat. Many ppm of fluoride is found, for example, in tea and fish.

Fluoridation does not just benefit children, it benefits everyone. The benefits of community water fluoridation do not end with childhood, they continue throughout adult life. For instance, drinking fluoridated water prevents two out of three cavities for life. Fluoridation ranks with immunization, pasteurization, and chlorination as one of the most effective public health practices developed and instituted in this century.

Fluoride helps the body retain calcium, keeping bones as well as teeth stronger in old age than they might be without it. Fluoride results in healthier people that's why 120 million Americans drink fluoridated water every day.

Remember fluoridation saves you money and is the best way to reduce tooth decay. If in doubt, ask your doctor or dentist.

Sincerely,
Frederick Baker, Jr.

Dear Larz:

The registered voters in the Town of Tewksbury will be voting on November 6, 1984 to determine whether or not Tewksbury's domestic water supply should be fluoridated.

Currently, Tewksbury is purchasing water from Lowell, Andover and Billerica because Tewksbury's wells do not produce enough water to meet the communities' current and projected needs.

Lowell and Andover, two of our main sources of water, are fluoridated. If the question on the ballot does not pass with a yes vote, Tewksbury will experience a severe water shortage, since the purchase of water from Lowell and Andover will no longer be possible (approximately two-thirds of our current water supply comes from those communities).

Before you vote, consider the following: Limited water supply would endanger the town's:

1. Fire fighting capabilities; 2. home use of water; 3. watering of gardens (vegetable and flower); 4. filling of pools; 5. meeting industries' water needs.

Election day, vote yes on question one.

A yes vote is a vote for water.
Sincerely,
Joan Sughrue Dunlevy, R.N.

Dear Larz:

In last week's "Letters to the Editor," I read a letter which echoed my feelings about a remark which happened to be uttered by Mr. Fay (Wilmington West Intermediate School principal) at a School Committee meeting.

The remark in question is "The high percentage of failures (at the West in comparison to the North Intermediate) may be traced to two factors. First, one can't ignore the socio-economic differences of the two neighborhoods." If I recall correctly, the second factor alluded to was un-concerned or un-involved parents.

These are not original excuses for problems in the public school system. I have heard these phrases several times, from educators at all levels, in defense of several public school systems. Add to these excuses of divorced parents, working others, underpaid teachers, and that all the "bright" kids are being whisked away to private schools to be taught by teachers who are paid even less.

I do understand that any problems at home or with life will affect a child's predisposition toward learning, but we can't let these troubles affect education for all children.

Wilmington is a town with very little rental property and next to no low income housing. How many truly under privileged families can there be?

Now we come to the problem of un-concerned or un-involved parents. Just who are these people? Is it the parent who leaves their children with a spouse or babysitter so they can go out in the day or evening to help raise funds for school PACs or work on drug and other worthwhile programs — or the one who stays home and oversees homework, baths and tooth-brushing?

School systems do not seem to value concerned parents. In fact, they seem to thwart them.

Ask the parents who whisked their child away to private school because the public school could motivate that child to cover a book — but not to open it.

Ask the parents who had to "fight city hall" in order to have their child's class changed from an environment which was negatively altering his personality.

Ask the parents who have approached school officials about their children who are beginning to hate school since they are made to sit quietly for 20 minutes, after the rest of the children have gone, for the bus to take them on its second run.

The blaming of the problems and even the case histories are not unique to Wilmington. The same scenes are repeated throughout Massachusetts and probably in other states.

Wilmington's uniqueness rests in its potential. We are a small enough community to be workable. We have a healthy mix of industrial and residential property. We have a fairly broad socio-economic range. We are a family oriented town that works hard to keep its children involved and busy. We have an abundance of super people in our educational system and we sure do have beautiful kids.

We all are aware of the discrepancies out there. Let's stop sweeping our problems under the rug and pretending all is well. Let's identify our problems and work on them.

I don't think it would hurt to do some standardized testing to see what the kids are achieving at our two intermediate schools — or at our elementary schools for that matter. Maybe we could find out if and when our system may be breaking down. At what grade level do discrepancies begin? What can we do about it if there is a problem?

I'd like to see Wilmington take the best of what public education has to offer and the best of what private education has to offer and put together a model school system.

Everybody has a dream I guess.

Elaine Tucker

Dear Larz:

Last week in the Town Crier, Stephanie Meegan, a very sincere, dedicated volunteer parent, wrote a letter of appeal to the parents and officials of this community of Wilmington.

She expressed both hurt and frustration over the lack of interest in a program on child safety and self-esteem. This program she presented is called "Impact on Youth."

Stephanie expressed that she could not understand the lack of interest in this program by parents and certain town officials further, she pleaded for her program that teaches children to be aware of their self worth and how to protect themselves from abuse.

Well, Stephanie had you attended the Monday night meeting on the proposed hockey rink, which was called late Friday afternoon, with no public notice other than posting at the town hall, perhaps, you would have seen the answer to your dilemma.

Values and priorities!

I have lived here for 17 years and been a community activist for most of my adult life and every time I witness the type of mentality that prevailed Monday night, I realize how imperfect mankind can be, how callous we can be. Every department head, every board and every public servant of this community was herded into the town all like cattle and treated like "lackies" as the cry of the crowd rose "we don't give a damn what 'normal' or safe procedures you feel should be followed — to hell with orderly process, give us what we want. NOW!

As a seasoned activist, I excuse the inexperience of a young board of selectmen chairman, one could empathize with the fears and sorrow of an old man in public display of his grief over the death of a loved one, to the insidious disease of cancer; you could understand the joy of an eight-year-old boy as he viewed the enormity of his project and his visions of becoming another Scott Hamilton.

However, it would be hard, on any pallet, to swallow the bitterness and hate displayed by some of the parents, and yes, their children. The mentality "if you don't give me what I want, and now, I will in some way make you pay."

Emotions ran high as department head after department head explained the standard procedure for any project of this size and the proper procedures that must be followed to protect the safety of the public.

There was no policies, there was no "vendetta," as expressed by one parent... there was merely a request for reason and order, and proper procedure with no preferential treatment.

So Stephanie, if you had been afforded the opportunity of deciding whether you wanted to witness this "public flogging" of our town department heads and the immature and callous actions of mob mentality, perhaps you would have your answer. I am certain being the gentle, caring person you are, you would have only added to your dismay and frustration.

The things you want to share with children and parents such as self-esteem, caring for one another, looking out for our neighbor and being open, loving and honest with one another, were not in demand last night; but keep trying, keep reaching out, there is not perfection, but there will always be hope!

Reading Light said to be 'stonewalling' information

The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD), which supplies electric power to North Reading, Wilmington and part of Lynnfield, in addition to the town of Reading, is "stonewalling" requests for information, requests that have been made under the Freedom of Information Acts. So Attorney Jeffrey Bernstein of Boston told a Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Committee Tuesday evening.

Bernstein told the committee that electric power rates will be increasing in Wilmington because of the difficulties with the Seabrook project in New Hampshire. He did not expect that Reading will have some of the difficulties to be faced by other Massachusetts municipal power plants, but there will be some, and Wilmington customers will have to absorb the costs.

The RMLD is a part of the Massachusetts Municipal Wholesale Electric Company (MMWEC), which is, in effect, a fund-raising consortium of municipal power plants. Reading has a relatively smaller part in MMWEC than does some other towns, Bernstein reported. Hull and Hudson are two towns which have a greater burden in a proportionate sense.

The MMWEC board of directors, nine persons, has seven municipal light department managers, he reported. MMWEC has invested heavily in Seabrook, in Millbrook III (Connecticut) and in Pilgrim II (Plymouth, Mass.), in an effort to ensure future supplies of electric power. It has also invested in a utility in western Massachusetts which is oil burning, the only such oil plant built in recent years.

Construction of Pilgrim II has been discontinued. Construction of Seabrook bids fair to be discontinued, but at an awful cost. Only the Millbrook II project will be "on line" Bernstein reported.

The RMLD is the largest municipal plant in the MMWEC, Bernstein said, with billings of about $35 million a year. It has, in a sense, been getting a "free ride" because investments made in MMWEC are not coming due until this year, as far as Reading is concerned.

But, Bernstein reported, the RMLD is about to charge its customers for the first bonds in Seabrook, and in Millbrook III and Pilgrim II. The charge, he said, will not really be a "fuel adjustment" but some may call it such. "It will be coming soon in the bills."

The light department in Hull, a much smaller community (one seventeenth the size of RMLD) is one of those that will have to charge increased rates soon. Bernstein thinks the Hull charges will increase $400,000 a month in 1986.

Hudson, Mass. is the foremost, in the list of increasing costs. That light department has made some additional investments in MMWEC, over and above those made by other light departments. The manager of the Hudson Light Department is the chairman of the MMWEC board, according to Bernstein and, he said, it was the manager who made the heavy investment for that town.

Reading, on the other hand, has made no investments in Seabrook since 1979, although it has invested in Millbrook III.

Bernstein reported that the RMLD is "stonewalling" the issue, and, although he did not use the same word, he made a similar report about the MMWEC. In both instances he reported items which, he said, were in conflict of interest.

The RMLD board has not furnished information requested under the Freedom of Information Act, Bernstein reported, although it is publicly owned. He wrote a letter on September 28, requesting information, a letter that is supposed to be replied to in 10 days. The answer was written on October 10.

The RMLD, through its chairman, said that inasmuch as the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is an "intervenor" in Docket 1627A, at the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, and because Reading is also a party in this action, the matter has been referred to MMWEC's counsel.

Docket 1627A is an application for MMWEC seeking authorization to borrow more money, for the issuance of bonds. The RMLD in its letter said that it was referring the Chamber request for information to the attorney for MMWEC, Ferriter & Barna of Boston.

To have RMLD and MMWEC use the same law firm, Bernstein termed a conflict of interest.

The MMWEC managers, Bernstein said, "are working desperately to save their jobs. Among things he cited, was that they employ an engineering firm known as R.W. Beck, and this firm also works for Seabrook. Bernstein regarded this as a conflict of interest.

Bernstein feels that the MMWEC managers are trying to use the law as it is written for privately owned utilities, even though their group is funded by Massachusetts municipalities. MMWEC, he stated, is responsible under the Freedom of Information Act, just as is RMLD.

He has, he said, used the Freedom of Information Act three or four times in the last few years, but has never had an experience like he has had with the RMLD.

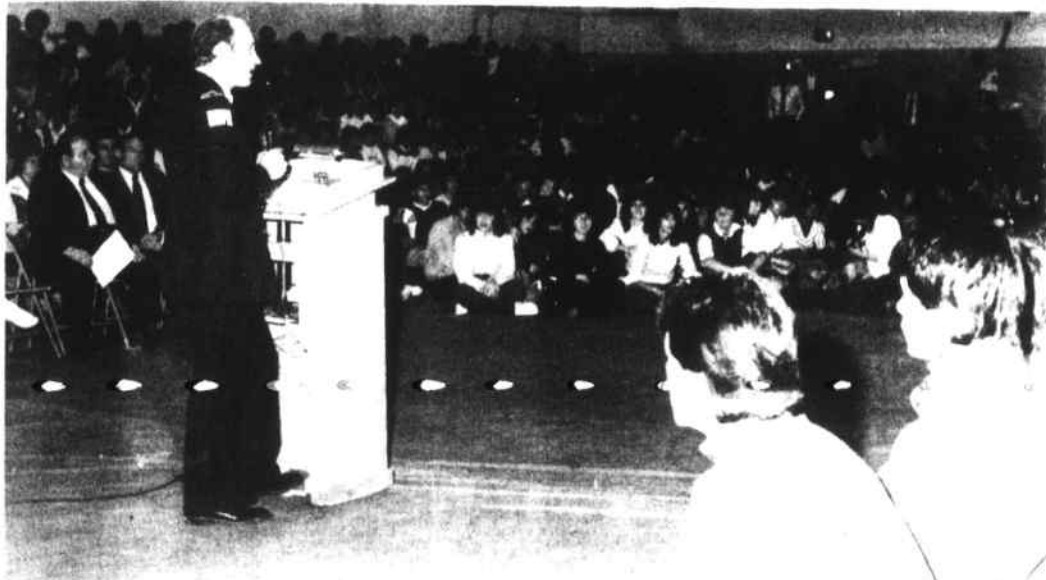

"We're ready to respond cooperatively," he told the group "there are a lot of things that can be done, to mitigate this situation."

Bernstein has three or four proposals, for the Chamber of Commerce group to consider, sometime in the future. The proposals still need more work and study.

Holiday Mart

The fifth annual Holiday Mart (admission free) will be sponsored by Temple Emanuel of Andover at the temple, 7 Haggetts Pond Rd., Andover, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 18.

Items offered for sale will include apparel, shoes, toys, jewelry and many more.

Drunken driving was the topic, as the students of Wilmington High School attended a rally in the gymnasium last Thursday morning. Chief of Police Bobby Stewart was one of many speakers who told the students of the dangers of riding with a drunk driver. The rally was put on by the newly-formed chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD).

Open houses highlight Education Week in Tewksbury

Activities related to American Education will be held in Tewksbury's Elementary Schools during the week of November 11 thru 17. Schools which have not had an open house as yet will be open one evening to welcome parents.

The purpose of these open houses is to offer parents the opportunity to observe what is going on in the schools. The evening meetings will be from 7 to 9 p.m. The dates are as follows:

Tuesday, November 13, North Street School; Wednesday, November 14, Shawsheen School; Thursday, November 15, Loella F. Dewing and Heath Brook schools.

Following the issuance of report cards the following schools will schedule evening meetings:

Wednesday, November 28, Memorial High School; Monday, December 3, Loella F. Dewing and Heath Brook schools; Tuesday, December 4, North Street and Shawsheen schools; Thursday, December 6, Junior High School.

Demonstrators found guilty

Five demonstrators arrested at Avco on June 18 were found guilty in Woburn Court on October 24 on charges of trespassing. Mary Corcoran, Barbara Moran, Ann Sorenson and Meredith Knight were placed on probation, and given community service sentences. The fifth person, who had a previous record, was given a 30 day suspended sentence at the Billerica House of Correction. When Sheila Parks refused to pay a $15 court fine she was committed to three days in the House of Correction.

George Furst, a sixth defendant had the charges against him dropped when the witness scheduled to testify against him did not appear. A seventh defendant, Jean Holladay was found to be in default. She did not appear in court, and according to other defendants she was, at that time, in jail.

The June 18 incident at Avco was after several weeks of discussions between the Wilmington selectmen and town counsel on one hand, and organizers of the New England Campaign to Stop the Eromissiles (NECSE) on the other. NECSE had applied for a parade permit for June 17. Selectmen denied the permit, after learning there was to be a demonstration with civil disobedience on June 18. After NECSE went to court, an agreement was reached and the town issued the permit for June 17.

There has been, for some months, generally on Tuesday mornings, picketing on Lowell Street in front of the Avco facility. It still continues.

About 350 demonstrators on June 18 met at St. Thomas Church and paraded down Adams Street and Parker Street to the Avco grounds. Wilmington Police Chief

Bobby Stewart testified in court that he had warned the leaders that morning, at St. Thomas Church, that there were snow fences erected on the property of Avco, and to cross those fences would constitute trespassing on private property. It was, he said, a pre-arranged condition that he would warn the leaders that morning.

There were "no trespassing" signs on the property, Stewart testified, which he said, were adequate to warn would-be trespassers that they were subject to arrest without warning. Stewart also testified that there were police dogs on the territory, about 20 or 30 feet behind the fence. He did not, he said, witness any incidents of demonstrators being bitten by dogs.

About 150 policemen were on the scene, including a large contingent of state police. State Trooper Richard Brown of Foxboro was one who testified for the Commonwealth. He testified he was five feet inside the Avco fence, and he was to arrest anyone who crossed over the fence. He had witnessed many persons who did this, and he identified defendants Knight and Sorenson as two who did so.

Officer Patrick King of Wilmington police testified that he was behind the fence, with the duty of arresting anyone who crossed the fence. He had watched as Mary Corcoran and Barbara Moran were arrested.

The defendants chose to waive their rights to counsel, and also their rights to a jury trial. Judge Joseph Grasso of Lowell presided at the trial and the evidence was presented by Assistant District Attorney Susan Beck.

Avco, which is located on more than 70 acres, makes re-entry systems for MX missiles, and arming devices for the Pershing II missiles.

VOTE FOR ONE

Republican

Democratic

If you're not an insurance company, this is an easy choice.

On Tuesday you will vote for President of the United States.

Perhaps you haven't thought as much about the other offices.

We ask you to think for one minute about your choice for State Senator.

Bob Buell is an insurance broker. His office is five minutes for the State House. He has received campaign contributions from at least 30 insurance brokers and three insurance company PAC groups. He regularly introduces legislation on behalf of the giant insurance companies, and let legislation die which would have investigated why your auto insurance costs so much.

Bill Squillace only wants to be your Senator...full-time. He's administered multimillion dollar human services programs for nine years. He has a Master's degree in Public Administration. He's spent 15 years in all kinds of community service. He wants to save you money, and he knows how.

Bill Squillace is qualified to represent you on Beacon Hill.

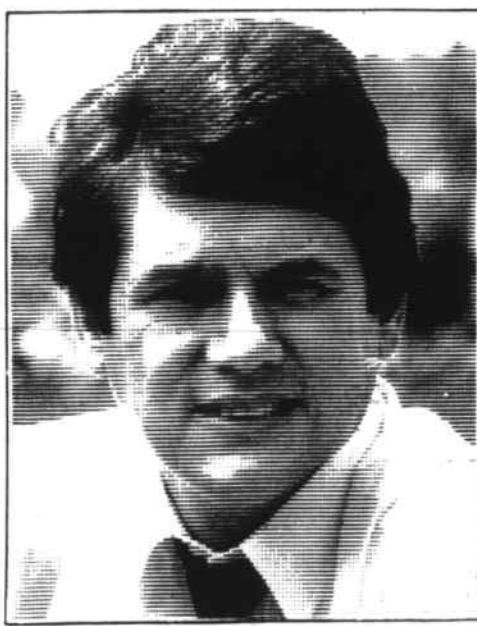

But more important...he's not DIS-qualified by being associated with special interests.

Make your choice now for new representation on Beacon Hill.

Choose someone who will represent YOU.

Choose Bill Squillace.

Unless, of course, you happen to be an insurance company.

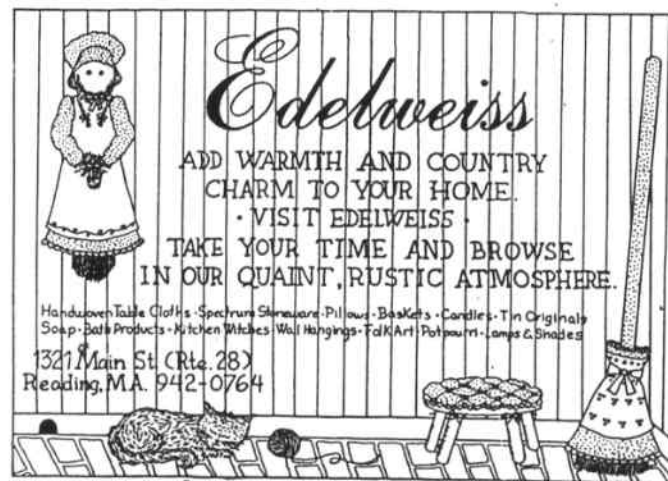

Bill Squillace

FOR STATE SENATE

YOU are his special interest.

Overnight parking ban starts November 15 in Tewksbury

Tewksbury Parking Clerk, Elizabeth Carey, reminds residents that the townwide overnight parking ban will be in effect starting Thursday, November 15, 1984. Last year, vehicles parked on streets overnight, midnight to 6 a.m., were given a $10 parking ticket by the police department. Carey also advises that during a snow storm, day or night, all vehicles must park off the street or they can be subject to a $15 ticket. The town wide parking ban on night time parking remains in effect until March 31, 1985.

Jacksons plan new subdivision

The Jackson Brothers of Wilmington, who have constructed something over 500 new homes in previous years, got back into stride Tuesday evening. They filed plans for a subdivision off Nichols Street, Wilmington.

The brothers did construct a new home on Middlesex Avenue about three years ago, but have been in other employment most of the time during the past five years.

Oakdale Park, Section I, was filed for the Jackson Brothers by engineer Ken Miller. There are seven lots on the plan, for seven homes, all to be constructed near the Gilbert house on Nichols Street. A street will go to the Tewksbury line, and end in a cul-de-sac around which will be granite curbing.

A tentative public hearing date of December 3 was set by the planning board.

Esther M. Pothier

Mrs. Esther M. Pothier of 3 Clinton St., Wilmington died at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston Thursday following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Pothier, 74 years of age at the time of her death, was born in Glenwood, Nova Scotia, the daughter of the late Emily (Jacquard) and the late Esley Babin. She lived in Nova Scotia most of her life, and lived in Lynn before moving to Wilmington 10 years ago.

Prior to retirement, Mrs. Pothier was employed as a seamstress for Malden Knitting Mills.

She was the widow of John W. Pothier and is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Paul (Shirley) Pothier of Wilmington; six brothers, Joseph A., Jacob, Camille Babin of Malden; Theodore Babin of Methuen; Gerard and Eddie Babin of Halifax, Nova Scotia; four sisters, Mrs. Teresa Sweeney of Malden; Mrs. Isabel Carchide of Manchester, N.H.; Mrs. Gertrude Surette of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia and Mrs. Celestine Robson of Malden. Two granddaughters also survive.

The funeral mass was held at St. Anne du' Russieu Church Eelbrook, Yarmouth, Nova Scotia on Monday.

Interment took place in the parish cemetery in Eelbrook. N.S. Arrangements were under the direction of the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home of Wilmington.

James J. Kennedy

James J. Kennedy of 7 Ballardvale St., Wilmington died unexpectedly Saturday at Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn. Sixty-six years of age at the time of his death, he was born in East Boston, the son of the late Gertrude I. (Skehan) and the late James J. Kennedy, Sr.

He lived in Wintthrop for many years prior to moving to Wilmington 29 years ago.

Mr. Kennedy was a veteran of World War II, having served in the U.S. Army.

Prior to retirement he served as an operational agent for American Airlines and had been employed by the airline for 40 years.

Mr. Kennedy is survived by his wife Alice L. (O'Brien) Kennedy, his two sons, Richard C. of Wilmington and James J. of Tewksbury; his two daughters, Mrs. Trudy I. Sullivan of Lowell and Mrs. Patricia M. Sheehan of Roslindale; his sister, Mrs. Phyllis M. Cestoni of New Jersey; his four grandchildren, Tori and Danielle Kennedy, Erin and Michael Sullivan.

The funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home Monday morning followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas Church celebrated by the Rev. Thomas Reynolds. Burial followed in Wildwood Cemetery.

League of Women Voters elects officers

The League of Women Voters of Wilmington has announced its new officers and board of directors for 1984-85. Officers are Donna Blackwell, president; Maureen Fredericks, first vice-president; Kathryn Cooper, second vice-president; Betsy Mullen, secretary and Sharon Baratta, treasurer.

Other members of the board include Barbara Sullivan, observer corps chairperson; Kathy Gilmore, bulletin editor; Eileen Gardner, finance chairperson; Patricia Rodan, membership chairperson and Odette Kent, public relations chairperson.

The League looks forward to a busy year providing information to the public on various local, state and national issues. Activities this year have included in September a Regional Candidates' Forum for those running for Congressmen Ed Markey's seat, and in October a tour of the Ipswich Watershed in conjunction with the Ipswich River Watershed Association.

On November 14, 1984 the League will be presenting to the public a slide show entitled "A Tour of Massachusetts Prisons" followed by a discussion of the issues in state corrections with speaker Margot C. Lindsay, director of the National Center for Citizen Participation in the Administration of Justice. The film will be shown at the Whitefield School (Town Hall Annex) Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

There are several other activities planned for the public in the next few months. A calendar of events is available in the Wilmington Public Library. The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization with membership open to all persons 18 years of age and older who are interested in being informed and active participants in the functioning of local, state and federal government. Anyone interested in joining the League or making a contribution should call Pat Rodan 657-7117 or Eileen Gardner 657-4342.

Cub Pack 136 meets

Cub Scout Pack 136 of Wilmington held its first pack meeting of the year on Monday, Oct. 22. Cubmaster John Delorey welcomed all the new and returning scouts and their families.

The opening flag ceremony was conducted and a raffle was held for a beautiful Swedish Ivy plant.

At this time, the following Webelos were given their Outdoorsman badges: Ray Metcalfe, Bobby Anderson, Sean Halley, Steven Sutton, Marc Garnet, and Howard Gilhooly, all from Den No. 1. Also earning their Outdoorsman badges from Den No. 2 were: James Burchedd, David Giles, Ernest Merrill Jr., Steven Lynn, and Eric Doucette.

Den No. 2 awarded Bobcat badges to Michael Watters, Shawn Machie, Erik Neilson, and Christopher Merrill.

Many congratulations were extended to those in Den No. 4 - Michael Laffen became a Bobcat; Matthew Carrozza a Wolf with one gold and one silver arrow; John Delorey, two silver arrows; Randy Johnson a Wolf and one gold and one silver arrow; Russell Allard a Wolf; Steven Sarafian a Wolf with one gold and one silver arrow; Charles Samatis, one silver arrow, and Marc Power two silver arrows.

The last awards to be presented went to those in Den No. 6 - Paul Mangino became a Wolf and Scott Barnes a Bobcat. Scott Mahoney earned one gold and two silver arrows before leaving Bears to advance to Webelos.

Following the awards ceremony, the dens gave a delightful presentation of the scary and creepy pumpkins they had decorated. This led to the brief talk on the upcoming Halloween party of October 28. A costume judging and many exciting games will be enjoyed by all.

The closing ceremony was a touching rendition of Taps done by Den No. 7. The next pack meeting will be held November 21.

GEOFF BECKWITH

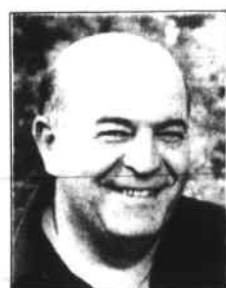

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Geoff Beckwith has the experience and understanding we need. . .

- To hold the line on taxes
- To fight for fair electric rates
- To lead the way to protect our water supplies
- To win needed reform of the Legislature
- To work effectively for us

Jim Miceli, State Representative, Wilmington. "Geoff Beckwith's first-hand knowledge and his involvement in helping to solve Wilmington's problems, such as the Route 129 relocation project, make him an ideal candidate for the Legislature in the 21st Middlesex District, which includes Precinct 3 in Wilmington."

Rocco DePasquale, Wilmington Selectman. "I've worked with Geoff Beckwith. I especially admire his willingness to take a tough stand in favor of controlling electric rates. He does his homework, listens to people, and has solid judgment."

'Horror High' — it's really a comedy

The Silver Lake Spotlighters' Young People's Theatre Workshop (YPT) will present the very funny Tim Kelly comedy Horror High on November 17 at 7:30 p.m. and November 18 at 3 p.m. at the North Intermediate School on in Wilmington. Tickets are $3.00 and may be reserved by calling the box office at 657-8589, Monday, Tuesday or Thursday evenings from 6:00 to 9:00 or on Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Horror High is a spoof on the horror-film era and is suitable entertainment for the whole family. More than 30 young people in grades four through 10 are a part of the talented cast. Most of the young people performing are completing their second semester in the workshop and bring to the production a combination of fresh acting skills and the energy of youth. Fast-paced action, spooky characters, and witty dialogue are all a part of this entertaining play.

Reserve tickets now for YPT's production of Horror High.

Nicholas Polio for County Commissioner

In this election year we tend to forget that in 1984 we will be electing two county commissioners in Middlesex County. Despite all of the billboards, signs and bumper stickers, the candidates for county commissioner collected an inordinate number of blanks in the primary. This poor showing can be attributed to the lack of media interest in county politics, even though Middlesex County has had a long history of political pollution.

Over the past 30 years, we have had very little choice at the polls for county candidates. With very few exceptions the Democrats who won in the primary were automatically elected in the general election, although their performance and skills were unknown to most of the voters. This year we have a clear choice between two incumbents and Nicholas S. Polio, the Republican challenger.

Nicholas Polio is a former career Air Force officer and planning manager for Raytheon. His leadership experience and demonstrated planning and budgeting skills in both the federal government and private industry is a match for the job of county commissioner.

For those of you who did not indicate a preference for county commissioner in the primary, weigh the experience factor and vote your conscience in the general election.

Santa to visit
St. William's fair
November 17

The St. William's Church Holiday Fair will be held Saturday, November 17 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the school hall.

For all the young and young at heart Santa Claus will be arriving at Tew-Mac Airport around 9:30 a.m. Awaiting his arrival will be a fire engine that will escort him through the town making their way to the school hall. Santa will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for pictures with all the children.

Raffle tickets are being sold by CCD students or may be purchased at the rectory. This year there will be over 40 prizes with the main prizes a being a computer and video cassette recorder.

Some of the tables at the fair will have a harvest table with homemade preserves, baked goods, penny candy, children's table, homemade crafts and attic treasures. Lunch will be sold from the kitchen and heading the menu is everyone's favorite, fried dough.

Ending this delightful day is a spaghetti supper which will be held in the parish center from 4 to 6 p.m. Everyone is invited.

Emerys celebrate 50th anniversary

A beautiful Service of Thanksgiving, arranged by their children, to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. F. Talbot Emery of Samoset Road, Boothbay Harbor, formerly of Wilmington, was recently held in the Congregational Church of Boothbay Harbor.

Talbot and Marjorie (Melzar) Emery renewed their wedding vows with the following ministers participating in the service:

The Rev. J. David Stinson, pastor of the Congregational Church of Boothbay Harbor; the Rev. Edward L. Federson, pastor of the Southport United Methodist Church, Southport, Maine where Mrs. Emery serves as organist and choir director; and the Rev. A. Karl Phillippi, pastor emeritus of the North Bradford Congregational Church, North Bradford, Conn. and former pastor of the Congregational Church in Boothbay Harbor. Over 150 relatives and friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Katherine Cook, serving as organist, played special selections chosen by the couple for the occasion. Mrs. Marion Dash of Boothbay Harbor and friend of the couple was soloist.

Karl F. Syvertson, stationed in Kodiak, Alaska with the U.S. Coast Guard, and Lee J. Biggar of Chelmsford, grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Emery served as ushers.

A 1941 Cadillac limousine, complete with chauffeur, drove the couple to the church and then to Ocean Gate Motor Inn on Southport, where a surprise reception, dinner and dance was held, tendered by their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery are the parents of three daughters, Mrs. Roy C. Syvertson (Madeline) of South Hampton, New Hampshire; Mrs. John W. Biggar (rebecca) of Chelmsford; Mrs. Edward E. White (Eugenia) of Westford; and a son, Peter Talbot Emery of Wayne, Maine. All 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren were present.

The Emerys have now returned from a trip to Florida and Virginia where they visited friends and various points of interest.

When You Vote

Do you just vote the party line?

Do you simply vote for any incumbent?

Do you merely x in the right number of boxes?

OR DO YOU CONSIDER THE CANDIDATE?

If, like many people, you think about the candidate when voting,

Then consider. . . S. Lester Ralph

S. Lester Ralph has built a career as a reformer and a man of integrity. A practicing attorney and Episcopal Priest, he fought corruption and waste as Mayor of Somerville, earning the prestigious All America City Award for good government. As Middlesex County Commissioners, he and Paul Tsongas eliminated waste, cut taxes, and increased services.

Now he's running for Congress in your District. If he's elected, he'll work with the administration to continue reducing unemployment and interest rates, keep inflation in check, and bring about tax reform. If he's elected, he'll get the administration to work with him to help the district on the problems of acid rain, pollution and toxic waste.

S. Lester Ralph Knows the difference between politics and government.

"As a Congressman, I would not be flashing my teeth in front of TV cameras to the abandonment of our district. I will work quietly — the only effective way in Washington — to bring about truly effective progress for our district and our nation."

Consider Someone who'll be listened to . . .
Not merely heard.

Another score

Tardugno, Rangers finally put Wildcats away

It wasn't until late in the fourth quarter that Methuen fullback Jay Tardugno (30 carries, 219 yards) broke the 21-9 Ranger (7-0-0) victory open with a 70 yard touchdown bolt. Up to that point, the hang tough Wilmington High School Wildcats had led 3-0 on a 23 yard Brian Moon fieldgoal at halftime and cut the Ranger margin to 14-9 early in the final stanza when quarterback Billy Woods found Moon with a four yard touchdown pass. However, four Methuen interceptions and a Ranger offense that solved a rugged WHS defense in the second half sent the Wildcats (4-2-1) down to their second defeat in three games.

Saturday, the Cats will be heavy underdogs once again when the host unbeaten Lowell (6-0-1) in a 2 p.m. game at the WHS gridiron.

Redmen enjoy rout, 40-6

The TMHS football squad finally enjoyed a moment in the sun even on a cloudy afternoon Saturday in handing hapless Greater Lawrence a 40-6 pasting. The Redmen ran 299 yards on the ground and junior quarterback Rob Aylward (7-9, two touchdowns) enjoyed a banner day as the starters rolled to a 27-0 halftime advantage before giving way to the Pat Brooks-Luis Renato led backup squad in the second half.

Brian Dick (51 yard TD catch), Rob Aylward (one yard sneak), Dick (25 yard pass), Brian Aylward (10 yard run), Bill Brothers (25 yard fumble recovery for TD), Brooks (four yard, scamper) and Jim Evangelista with four PAT's accounted for the points in Tewksbury's second victory of the season.

Tewksbury set for showdown

Tewksbury's freshmen football squad stretched their record to 5-0-1 Friday with an 18-0 blanking of Greater Lawrence. The win sets up a showdown with a tough Billerica squad this Friday.

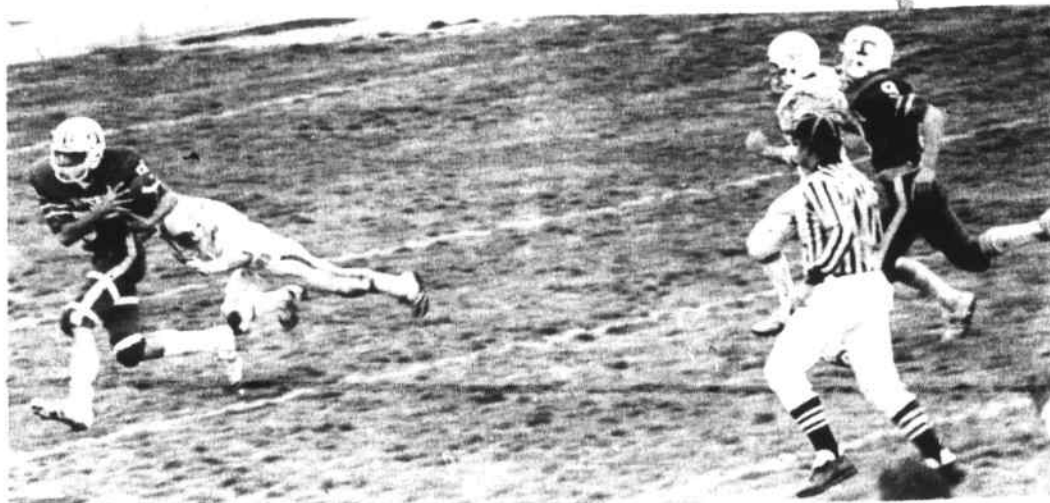

The Redmen frosh broke on the board in the first quarter when halfback Tom Gallella scampered 22 yards for a touchdown. In the second quarter linebacker Scott Niles in-

Unusual cut

Tewksbury junior linebacker Mike Healey sports a smile and a rather strange coiffure. The Redmen romped Saturday, 40-6.

Dick for six

Tewksbury High School senior receiver Brian Dick latches on to one of his two touchdown catches in Saturday's 40-6 romp over Greater Lawrence. Brian Aylward (9) trails the play.

C' team tops tough Lynn, 13-0

Tewksbury's Pop Warner C squad rolled to another victory Sunday, downing Lynn, 13-0 as Sean Mackey scored on a 15 yard run and quarterback Keith Nolan hit Tim Lightfoot with a 54 yard TD strike. Mackey also added a conversion reception to his totals. Mackey ran the ball 11 times for 54 yards while also catching five passes enroute to a 1,000 yard season. Nolan was 5 of 8 for 108 yards.

Todd Bairstow was selected as game captain after a superb defensive performance that included three sacks, three tackles for losses and 12 assisted tackles. Jamie Flynn also helped the cause with a recovered fumble.

The offensive line of Craig

Sobelski, Jason Anzivino, Steve Field, Brian Brooks, Paul Sinkus, Garren Worth and Dan Sprague also was instrumental in the C' squad victory.

Tewksbury teams sweep
Tewksbury teams posted a clean sweep in recent Pop Warner action. The A team defeated Lawrence, 28-2 behind touchdowns from John Miller, Steve Pesce, John Conway and Billy Sullivan. Tom Burns notched the extra points. This effort gives the Tewksbury A team a 5-2-0 season thus far.

The B team defeated Lawrence, 32-2. Touchdowns by Rob Lombardi (two) Kevin Ward and Mark Sweeney (two). Extra point by Glen Harris. The Tewksbury B team remains undefeated with a 6-0-1 record. The Sioux D squad defeated the Lowell Cardinals, 12-0 behind Joe Goglia's two touchdowns. The Sioux have a season record of 5-1-0.

The Pawnee D squad defeated the Lowell Chiefs, 20-16. Touchdowns by Tim Nawn, Carmen Zullo, and Matthew Moore. Extra points by Kirk Lombardi and Kevin Green. The Pawnee record stands at 4-2-0.

Wilmington's Gene Dussault leans into this toss in recent local dart league action. Fourteen area teams make up the league.

Wilmington skaters keep busy

The Wilmington Figure Skating Club has resumed its busy fall and winter schedule. In September two local skaters entered the Boston Open, an annual competition hosted by the Skating Club of Boston and sanctioned by the United States Figure Skating Association.

Amanda Farkas of Wilmington brought home a silver medal for her second place finish in the preliminary freestyle event. Allison Newton of Andover competed in the juvenile freestyle category. This is just the beginning, with many of the club skaters preparing for several competitions in the months ahead.

The badge program is also underway, but there are still openings in some of the classes. It's not too late to contact one of the badge program coordinators for information at 658-6343 or 475-4865.

On October 11, the badge program held this year's first badge test session. Students were tested with the following results:

Passed Badge One: Allison Ahern, Courtney Bolser, Scott Bolser, Janet Day, Stephanie Merritt, Karrie Becker, Julie Abruzzi, Amy St. Jean, Dena Fitzgerald, Crystal Berube, Carrie Hampl and Julie Trepanier.

Passed Badge Two: Crystal Berube, Carrie Hampl and Julie Trepanier.

Passed Badge Three: Maria Giglio.

Passed Badge Four: Christine Kelly.

Passed Badge Five: Jennifer Boucher and Crystal Kenney.

Passed Badge Six: Donald Barker.

Passed Badge Seven: Joy Costanza, Janine Perkinson, Brenda Savosik, Kellie Sullivan and Kerri White.

Passed Badge Eight: Jennifer Perkinson and Christa Peters.

Passed Badge Eleven: Joceyln Perkinson.

Passed Badge Twelve: Lisa Berberian, Kristin Johnson and Jennifer Savosik.

The skaters who completed the program will be performing in the Twelfth Badge Recital this spring.

tercepted a Reggie pitch out and chugged in 45 yards to send Tewksbury up 12-0. Fullback Dave McSweeney swept nine yards for a score early in the third quarter to complete the scoring. Tewksbury's Blue offense threatened late in the fourth quarter when quarterback Kevin O'Brien connected with Chris Nastasi as time ran out.

Defensively, the Tewksbury leaders were Scott Niles along with Bill Donahue and Mike Hennessey.

Redmen clinch title, gear for tourney

The Tewksbury varsity soccer team (12-3-1) established itself as the Small School Merrimack Valley Conference champion this past week and at the same time qualified for the state tournament for the fourth time in the last five years.

Saturday, November 3, at 7:30 p.m., the annual Small School - Large School All-Star game will be held at the Greater Lawrence Regional High School. The rain date is Sunday, November 4th, with the time to be announced. Tewksbury should be represented by several team members who have had outstanding seasons.

November 6 or 7 Tewksbury begins first round action in the State Tournament, with the time and opponent to be announced in the Boston newspapers this coming Sunday, November 4. Tewksbury this year will appear in the Division I Tournament instead of Division II. Divisions are determined by male enrollment in grades 10-11-12 as of October 1, 1984.

This past week, the Redmen defeated Haverhill at Tewksbury, 5-0 then were rolled over by Billerica the very next day, 4-0. On Saturday morning of that same week, Tewksbury eliminated Lowell from any chance of making the state tournament with a convincing 3-0 victory over the Red Raiders.

The Tewksbury junior varsity team, coached by Robert Manzi, also is in the midst of its finest season ever, currently with a 9-5-1 record, with games against Billerica, Lowell and Greater Lawrence still to be played. The JV's this past week defeated Billerica, 5-0 and Haverhill, 7-0. A separate wrap up article on the junior varsity season will appear later this month.

Tewksbury 5 Haverhill 0
A Tewksbury victory that clinched its first ever MVC championship was the highlight of this game, as the Redmen scored two first half goals and controlled the game from that point. Scoring leader Marc Masone notched the first goal on a pass from junior Joey Weser at 8:58. At 19:22, senior co-captain Jim Field, on a pass from Masone, made the count 2-0.

Fifty-seven seconds into the second half, the team's other co-captain Scott Thornton capitalized on a Hillies' turnover in their own end to make the count, 3-0. Twenty-two minutes later senior forward Danny Carroll put the team's fourth goal in the net, also converting on a Haverhill turnover.

Sophomore midfielder John Fleury then scored his first varsity goal as he took a pass from sophomore teammate Todd Simas and slammed the ball to the right of the goalie.

Billerica 4 Tewksbury 0

Billerica was in a must win situation in their Large School race against Andover and they played like a team possessed. Extremely aggressive to the ball, the Indians made few mistakes and took advantage of many of Tewksbury's to a count of a 4-0 final. With Frank Mirasolo and Alan Poulin scoring two goals each, the Indians tied Andover for the best record in the Large School race.

Playing well for the Redmen were backup goalie Kenny Krugh and stopper back Nario Simao. Krugh took over with the score 3-0 and did a fine job for the Redmen.

Tewksbury 3 Lowell 0

For the third time this season

Tewksbury was able to bounce back with a win against a good opponent after a tough loss. Lowell had much to lose in this game, as they had to win the final three games of their regular season to qualify for the state tournament.

Lowell came out fast, but was continuously frustrated by the excellent defensive play of stopperback Nario Simao, with timely help from Ed Sipowicz, Joey Weser, and Kenny Krugh. Ricky Heartquist was immense in net, Johnny on the spot on several close shots.

Tewksbury started to move the ball forward consistently late in the first half, and finally made good on some of their pressure when Danny Carroll headed in a beautiful crossing pass from midfielder Darrell Favreau.

The second half was all Redmen, as Peter Kushtecuk raised the count to 2-0 when team leading scorer Marc Masone fed Peter a perfect needle pass through two Lowell defenders.

Co-captain Jim Field closed out the scoring with another Tewksbury header goal, this time off a corner kick from Marc Masone. Outstanding for the Redmen along with Simao and Heartquist were midfielder Keith Tower and sophomore winger Kyle Favreau.

Sports editor's note: Soccer coach Steve Levine provided the information for this report.

Tewksbury sweeps past Bedford, Dracut

Strong running by the front runners and great improvement by the remainder of the squads enabled the TMHS boys and girls cross country teams to win their meets this past week. The TMHS girls' team knocked off Bedford, 22-37 and the next day the boys' team squeezed ahead of Dracut, 27-29.

Fran Mulrain finished well ahead of all Bedford contenders, demolishing the competition with her long stride. Peggy Forsyth, continuing her string of good races, finished second after holding off Bedford's top two runners for the entire race.

After Fran and Peggy, Tewksbury locked up the meet with a sturdy fifth and sixth place finish by Tricia Censullo and Krissie Connor and an eighth place finish by Sue McLaughlin. Kristin Conley, Amy DiGiorgio and Kim Marshall also placed ahead of Bedford's number four runner, once again illustrating the extent of Tewksbury's depth. Amy showed the most remarkable improvement, lowering her average time per mile by almost a full minute.

The boys' team went up against Dracut at a considerable disadvantage. Second man Ed Piscopo was out of action with the flu. Thus it was up to the rest of the team to run better than they ever had before, and that is just what they did.

Steve Murphy, as has become his custom, took the lead after the six mile mark and won the race going away. His time cut 12 seconds off the course record.

Dracut slipped two runners in behind Steve however, so it was up to Jeff Smith, Joe Hannon and Brian Tremblay to take the next places. They did the job admirably. Each man cut his best time by a considerable amount, which they had to do since Dracut had two runners just a few seconds behind them.

The meet finally hinged on Steve Ellwood, who was now the crucial fifth runner with Piscopo out of the lineup. Steve came through in the clutch, running a courageous race and taking the 11th place the Redmen had to have to pull out the victory.

Tewksbury's season record is now 4-3 and as they head toward the final dual meet of the season against Wilmington, the Redmen can be proud of the improvement they have made over last year's 0-8 disappointment. Every man on the team has worked hard to improve. Through their combined efforts they have made Tewksbury a tough team to contend with in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Tewksbury girls' basketball

Registration for Tewksbury girls' basketball will be held Friday evening, November 2 from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. at the town hall. Girls ages nine to 14 on or before December 1, 1984 are eligible to play. Girls are to be accompanied by a parent, and birth certificates are required.

Those interested in coaching are asked to sign up at this time. Coaching staff members from last year who wish to retain the same team are asked to be present at the signups. Those who can not be present should contact Ruth Perrin at 851-9990 or teams will be assigned to others.

Upset Saturday The WHS cheerleaders are gearing up for an upset of unbeaten Lowell Saturday. See Cooke's Picks this page.

Breaking through WHS guard-linebacker Peter Campbell (62) leads the team on to the field in recent action. Lowell is in for a battle from Campbell and the Cats Saturday.

TMHS field hockey First place Tyngsboro tips Redmen, 2-1

The Redmen field hockey squad lost to first place Tyngsboro, 2-1 in a close MVC game last week. Tewksbury took the lead midway through the first half when wing Karen Fahey rushed the net and scored.

Tyngsboro then scored two goals before the half ended. The Redmen shutout the powerful opponents in the second half, but were unable to score themselves. Instrumental in holding Tyngsboro to two goals were defensive players Michelle Catalano, Val Greene, Karen Corbett, Chris Blake, Karen Smart, Lori Nunziato and Kerri Beaulieu. Goalie DeeDee Lamport played an excellent game, making 12 saves.

Later in the week, Redmen tied Haverhill, 1-1. The Haverhill team jumped out to an early lead by scoring 10 minutes into the first half. Redmen forwards Karen Fahey, Missy Glencross, Michelle DiVivo and Noelle Codner came close to scoring several times during the first half.

The girls played a more aggressive second half. Tracy Danner tied up the game when she scored off a pass from Sue Wyshak. Chris Blake and Lori Nunziato played well defensively for Tewksbury. The tie brings the TMHS record to 2-10-3.

Over the Hill Soccer

Andover nips Tewksbury

Andover Gold handed Tewksbury International their first loss of the season, 3-2 in local Over the Hill Soccer League as they came out flying in a must win game for a playoff spot, scoring after only one minute of play and netting another after 15 minutes.

International recovered, pulling a goal back from Ernst Uebel, but Andover shocked International with a disputed third goal just before the half ended when an Andover handball went undetected. International woke up in the second half and took the play to Andover, but it wasn't their day, as several shots just missed, including a penalty shot. With 10 minutes to go International finally scored through Pius Leung, but it was too late as Andover was playing total defense and kept International at bay.

Tewksbury Blues 2 North Andover III 1
 The Tewksbury Blues beat a hard playing North Andover III team, 2-1 in another must win game, keeping them in touch with the Division IV leaders for a playoff spot. It was a close game throughout, as Jim Marnie put the Blues ahead, 1-0 with North Andover fighting back and tying the game just before halftime.

The second half saw the Blues' defense absorb tremendous pressure, but it held until with 10 minutes left Manny Vega fired home the winning goal.

Tewksbury Regulators 4 Andover White 1
 The Tewksbury Regulators kept their playoff hopes alive with a good 4-1 win against Andover White. The Regulators must now win their last three games, starting next week against Division III leaders Tewksbury International.

STUDENT PUBLICATION OF WILMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

OCTOBER 31, 1984

Mr. Fleming

A view of the top: An interview with Mr. Fleming

by Linda Romanowski '87

Mr. Fleming, the principal of Wilmington High School, is a very busy man. It is amazing that he has time to sleep, never mind to give an interview. But that is the price one pays when one becomes the new principal of a high school.

Mr. Fleming seems to be handling at least a dozen problems simultaneously. Don't misunderstand him, though, Mr. Fleming is extremely optimistic and thoroughly enjoys his job. Despite his almost foreboding appearance, Mr. Fleming is really a friendly and personable man. To get a better view of the man, let's enter that usually forbidden place, the principal's office.

Underscoring the image of a busy man, three piles of paper are spread across the desk. An open potato chip bag, perhaps the remnants of a quick lunch, is at the edge of the desk. On the wall over the desk, a bulletin board, papered with notices catches the eye. Mr. Fleming leans back in his office swivel chair and gazes out the window at the afternoon light as he begins to speak.

"I was vice-principal at Plymouth Carver High School in Plymouth, Massachusetts for 14 years," he begins. "Actually, I was one of two vice-principals. I wanted to be principal of a high school. It was a career goal."

When the principal of the Plymouth High School retired, the school board hired an outsider to be the principal. It didn't look as though Mr. Fleming would be promoted to the position of principal in the near future, so he started looking around for new openings, possibly in other high schools. That's when Wilmington advertised an opening for a new principal. Mr. Fleming applied for the job and got it.

"I was lucky, very lucky," he says. "I wanted to be principal and affect kids' lives, socially and academically, and I really wanted to be in direct contact with them."

"This was my dream, you see?" he says, gesticulating to make his point. "I have dreams and goals just like everyone else. I think that's good. Students, too, should have certain goals and should strive to reach these goals."

When we first came to the school, Mr. Fleming wanted to assess what was here and that took time. He did not want to isolate the good and bad points, but he wanted an overall picture. "So I asked the staff questions about the kids, their attitudes," he says. "And the response was that the kids are excellent in all areas: feeling, responsiveness, and intelligence."

"The only thing that worried me was the attendance. Over 50 percent of the student population had 15 or more days of absences last year. I asked myself why, and the only thing I came up with was that all there was to do at the high school was sports. (School in itself is not interesting.) "And because not all the students are athletes, we needed some interesting activities so everyone would get involved. There was no real student government, not even a functioning school newspaper."

So, Mr. Fleming started pushing for activities. He has plans for a debate team and a Model Congress Club. Mr. Fleming also envisions a "huge" marching band - large high school bands are a personal favorite of his, but some students feel that these activities may be hard to organize considering the upcoming high school renovations.

Mr. Fleming feels very positive and optimistic about the renovations.

The school is currently in the developmental stages of renovation, with surveyors checking and re-checking blueprints. The actual construction will commence in May or June, continuing through the summer.

"We're not the first high school in Massachusetts to undergo renovations," says Mr. Fleming. "I feel that the school has the stability to run efficiently, even during construction."

Another new issue at the high school is the strict drug policy. Last year, the principal, superintendent, and school committee decided to work on the drug situation at the high school. The recent no-smoking rule, Mr. Fleming feels, has helped to make a significant dent in that area. Stating another reason for the smoking ban, Mr. Fleming says, "It has been proven that smoking is harmful, and I don't see how I, as the head of the school, could consciously allow the students to harm themselves. I want a clean school."

Still another controversial issue is the current high school lunch periods, which are divided in half - 25 minutes in the auditorium for a study and 25 minutes in the cafeteria for lunch.

This lunch study system was created to reduce the number of students in the cafeteria at one time.

"I'm not happy with the lunch study system, either," states Mr. Fleming. "It should be a quiet study, and I want a quiet study, but I do realize that you cannot have an effective study period in 25 minutes. You could not get any real work done." Mr. Fleming hopes to have activities conducted during the study half of the lunch period; such as showing movies or having speakers visit the school.

When asked how he viewed the school in one year, Mr. Fleming replied that he would like to stay on course and possibly revise the curriculum, but he doesn't want to make many changes while he is still so new to the school.

One area he would like to see change within the school year is student scheduling. Usually, students receive their schedules a few weeks before school opens in the fall, but this year, Mr. Fleming wants the students to leave in June with their schedules.

"How do I see the school in five years?" Mr. Fleming asks. "Oh, I see it as great. It will have a working activity program and attendance program. In the athletic department, the teams will win every time. All seniors who wish to continue on to college will attend Ivy League colleges - with all the scholarship money they need!" Mr. Fleming obviously has very high hopes and ideals for Wilmington High School.

Mr. Fleming is very excited and enthusiastic about getting involved in the school. "I love my job," states Mr. Fleming. "I love relating directly with kids. I want this school to grow in integrity and character. I want it to be exciting."

After speaking with Mr. Fleming, it is evident that he is a very friendly and optimistic man. After one hears Mr. Fleming's enthusiasm for the school, it is hard not to be enthusiastic about the direction of Wilmington High.

Who's new?

New teachers at W.H.S.

This year there are many teachers who are new to Wilmington High School. In order to help you get to know them a little better we have interviewed some of them. In future issues we will introduce other new teachers.

Teaching French and German is Miss Travis. Previously, she taught at Bedford High School. She received a B.A. from Ohio State University and an M.A. from Bryn Mawr. When asked why she decided to become a teacher here, she replied, "I like the New England area."

Mrs. Neimi is not a new face to students from the North Intermediate School; she taught there for 11 years. She also taught for a year at the West Intermediate. This is her first year at the high school, and she is teaching Music Survey, Fundamentals of Music, Vocal Company, Vocal Ensemble, and a 1920's survey. In her spare time, Mrs. Neimi likes to ski and play racquetball.

Miss Toomajian, one of our new mathematics instructors, teaches two Pre-Algebra classes, two Integrated Math III classes, and one Alternative Education Program class. She received her undergraduate degree from Wellesley College and did graduate work at the University of Massachusetts. She has been teaching for two years. Last year, Miss Toomajian taught at a junior high school in Lexington.

graduate of Salem State College, she has been teaching for 20 years. She has taught at Middlesex Community College and in the city of Boston.

Mr. Pope

Mr. Pope is a physical education teacher and an athletic trainer. He attended Springfield College and has a degree in sports medicine. Before coming to Wilmington High, Mr. Pope taught physical education at the Massachusetts Migrant Education Program.

Teaching acting is Mr. Wrynn. When inquiring about his past, we found he has had a wide variety of teaching experiences. First, he went to the University of Massachusetts where he majored in speech and minored in acting. Upon graduation, Mr. Wrynn taught at Weymouth High School and then at Lynn Classical High School. Then, he went to the University of Florida to gain a graduate degree in acting. For seven years, Mr. Wrynn taught acting in Florida, but he always wanted to return to Massachusetts. Before coming to Wilmington, Mr. Wrynn taught in Beverly and at a middle school on Cape Cod. In addition to his teaching credentials, Mr. Wrynn has also acted in over 50 plays.

New to us at the high school, but not new to Wilmington is Mr. Magnarelli. A teacher for 15 years, Mr. Magnarelli previously taught at the West and the North Intermediate Schools. A few of his hobbies are woodworking and playing golf.

Mrs. Marder, a new art teacher, has been teaching for 15 years. She has taught in Wayland and in the Newton Adult Education Program. She enjoys working with children of all ages. Currently, Mrs. Marder is teaching ceramics and sculpture. Some of her hobbies are swimming, attending her children's hockey games, and, of course, attending art exhibits.

Miss Catarino is a new foreign language teacher. She has been teaching for five years. Previously, she taught at St. Mary's High School in Lynn. This year she is teaching Spanish II, Spanish III and Spanish IV Honors.

Other new teachers whom we will be interviewing for future issues are: Mrs. Allison, Ms. Schmidt, Mrs. Pressler, Miss MacEachern and Mrs. Racioppi.

The Wildcat news staff extends a warm welcome to all teachers new to Wilmington High on behalf of the entire student body.

Miss Travis

Science Club

The Science Club has already had a successful trip to Lowell to tour the mills and canals. The trip took place on Thursday, October 4. The focus of the field trip was a tour along the Mill Canals. The students were told why the canals were built and how they were used. An explanation of the gates and locks of the canals was also offered. It was a worthwhile tour, and is recommended to anyone who is interested in local history.

The Science Club has also elected new officers; they are: Eryk Rotondo, president; Diana Murray, vice-president; Sharon Hayward, treasurer; Donna Murray, secretary; Mr. Krey is the faculty advisor.

Currently, the club is planning a trip to the Museum of Science, and trips to the New England Aquarium and Quincy Marketplace.

The Science Club is still seeking members. Anyone interested is asked to see Mr. Krey in room 226.

Kudos

Hearty thank-yous are extended to Captain Larz Neilson, Mr. Larz F. Neilson, Mr. Stuart Neilson, and all members of the Town Crier staff for their patience and technical assistance in helping the Wildcat staff typeset and layout issue number one.

Also, a tip of the cap to Ms. Suzette Hall, photography instructor at W.H.S. for her fine assistance.

Again, many thanks

Four years of change

by Kim Nelson '85

During the past four years, the time I've been going to Wilmington High School, there have been many changes.

Four years ago, when I was a freshman, students were allowed to walk over to the common during unassigned periods, have independent studies, and there was a smoking area. At that time, Dr. George Eisenberg was the principal of the high school.

While I was a sophomore, Dr. Eisenberg resigned, and Mr. Garrett, a vice principal, became acting principal. During this time, independent studies were phased out because students weren't using them properly. Also, the privilege of using the common during free time was revoked. At the end of that year, Mr. Garrett retired.

Last year, Mr. DeRosa, the head of the science department, was appointed acting principal. Midway through the year, Mr. Woods, a physical education teacher, became vice principal. At the end of the year we were informed of a new drug policy to take effect in September. Also, who could forget the digging up of the oil tanks and our day at the Shriners?

Again, this year, there are more changes. Mr. Paul T. Fleming, has become our new principal. Other changes, aside from the new drug policy are: stricter attendance and tardy policies, monitors in the bathrooms, closing of the smoking area, 25 minute lunches with 25 minute studies and a few new clubs.

This senior, and others, wonder what changes will occur at Wilmington High in future years.

W.H.S. class notes

Senior class notes

The senior class advisor this year is Mr. Robert Boucher. He and the class officers are planning the prom and other activities for the senior class. The officers for this year are: Sean Connors, president; Andrea Ausciello, vice-president; Maria Alpers, treasurer; Denise Quinn, secretary.

A reminder: The deadline for senior portraits is December 16. If you have not had your portrait taken yet, make an appointment as soon as possible. If you are having your picture taken at Burlington Studios, you can have the picture of your choice sent directly to the yearbook staff. You may also turn your picture in to Mr. Dicey in room 127.

Junior class notes

The new junior class advisor is Mr. Hill. He and the junior class officers are planning many activities.

Because members of the junior class would like color yearbooks, they are having a fund raising drive before Thanksgiving. Part of the drive is a candy sale which is already underway. There may possibly be another fund raiser before the end of December.

In order to support the junior class activities, Mr. Hill urges that all class dues be paid. One student from each homeroom is responsible for collecting the dues. Class dues paid before January 1 will be $20.00. It is estimated that dues paid after January 1 will be $30.00.

The junior class officers are: president, Peter Campbell; vice-president, John Desforge; treasurer, Kellie Kavanaugh; secretary, Lisa Cutone.

The sophomore class, under the direction of its faculty advisor, Miss Fitzgerald, is planning many activities for the 1985-1986 school year. Since the beginning of the school year the sophomores have begun their activities. They have sponsored a car wash and a Halloween Dance, which featured performances by two 10-year-old break dancers.

Some ideas for future activities include: a road race, bingo night, spaghetti supper, class picnic, attending a musical in Boston, a whale watch and a rollerskating party.

Miss Fitzgerald stated that the goal for this year is "to build solidarity as a class through fun activities and school spirit. To enjoy each other's company, and to raise sufficient funds for future years."

The sophomore class officers are:

Scott Ferrari, president; Denise MacMullin, vice-president; Missy Frey, secretary; Tina Favero, treasurer.

This school year looks to be both fun and profitable for the sophomore class.

Contributed by Sheila Duggan '87

Freshmen Class Notes

Mrs. Marder is the freshman class advisor. The class officers are:

Jonathan Oliver, president; Tony DeSantis, vice president; David Patterson, treasurer.

Prior to Thanksgiving, the freshman class will run a sweat shirt sale. Soon after Thanksgiving there will be a dance.

Vocal Company

The W.H.S. Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Neimi, is planning a very active year. The vocal company will be attending a musical in Boston. Also, the chorus will present concerts, one in December and one in the spring. The chorus consists of 30 students; 24 females and six males.

The W.H.S. Music Department is going to increase other activities this year. Guest artists and musical theatrical groups will be invited to the school to give performances. These performances will be open to the entire student body, and it is hoped they will help to broaden the students' perspectives of music.

RUSH: A concert review

by Jim Magliozzi '87 and Paul Rescigno '87

Rush in concert at the Worcester Centrum Oct. 3 with opening act Fastway

The overhead lights were quickly dimmed and the Centrum thudded as the crowd rose from its seats to experience a night of rock 'n' roll deviating from the usual musical norm. Bassist, and high-pitched vocalist, Geddy Lee, along with percussionist and lyricist Neil Peart and guitarist Alex Lifeson, proved once again that they are one of the most versatile and creative bands in rock history.

The Centrum broke into hysteria as the Canadian power trio hit the stage and launched into "The Spirit of Radio." They then went on to perform a full 90 minutes, choosing selections from albums past and present.

The hour and a half in which they played was almost too short for the band to play all of their most requested tunes from their decade-long career. Yet, the band cranked out song after song, from the hard rocking "Temples of Syrinx" to the intricate arrangements of "The Body Electric" and "New World Man." They sounded true to the record, and also put on an unbelievable stage show.

Aiding the visual part of the show was a giant screen behind the band which featured projections of brief animations, movies, and video clips relating to the subject matter of the songs. One such scene depicted the madness of a group of people preparing for a witch hunt, and was derived from the lyrical content of the song by the same name. Others included clips of recent MTV videos and animated cartoons. Also, in addition to a colossal light show, was an amazing laserium, featuring a large array of fluorescent green laser lights that kept the audience in awe through the whole performance.

The band played 20 songs, seven of which were from their latest album "Grace Under Pressure," and five from their "Moving Pictures" album. They also played as many songs from their previous albums as they could squeeze into their set. Once the concert was underway, the group executed the distinctive "Fear Trilogy," a series of songs which was completed by lyricist Neil Peart over the course of three albums. The trilogy includes "The Enemy Within," "The Weapon," and "Witch Hunt."

The band finished up in style with the classic "Tom Sawyer," then left the stage for a slight breather, before the roaring crowd brought them back for an encore. The band played "Red Lenses" from the latest album, featuring an extraordinary drum solo by Neil Peart. He amazed the crowd with his technical abilities and intense drumming skills. Starting an electronic set, his satellite drum kit rotated on a revolving drum stage to reveal his immense tama drum set-up, where he let loose with full fury. Next, the band played "Vital Signs," and then wrapped up the show with a medley of old favorites from their first album, including "Finding My Way" and "In the Mood."

The show lived up to the expectations of all Rush fans, and will not soon be forgotten.

The opening show for Rush was an English based heavy metal-blues band by the name of Fastway, featuring former Motorhead guitarist "Fast Eddie Clark. The band ripped through some of its most well known numbers like "Say What You Will" and "All Fired Up." Even though lead singer David King attempted to liven up the crowd, the heavy metal band still seemed misplaced in the packed Centrum full of anxious Rush fans.

Foreign Language Club

The Foreign Language Club is quickly becoming a very exciting and active group and is already productive in many areas.

The club is comprised of students from French and Spanish classes who participate in extra-curricular activities oriented toward inter-cultural awareness.

This year, the students have been to Chi-Chi's, a Mexican restaurant in Peagody, and have gone to see a French film at the Cabot Street Cinema Theatre in Beverly. Also, the students attended a performance of "Carmen" by Ramon de los Reyes Flamenco Dance Troupe at the John Hancock Hall in Boston on October 28. In addition, the students sponsored a car wash to raise funds for activities for later in the year.

Yaz:

An autumn remembrance

by Val Ryan '86

Baseball is a dynamic game. Changes are an integral part of what makes it America's pastime. Managers come and go, players are traded and sold, teams win and lose. A player can be praised one day and disrespected the next. All these things happen, and are forgotten. But when a legendary hero retires after 23 years, before thousands of adoring fans, that is something not soon forgotten.

Sunday afternoon, October 2, 1983 was a very emotional day. It was Captain Carl Yastrzemski's final game as a major league player. You didn't have to be in the park to feel the flow of affection surging through the crowd. Yaz himself broke down and cried. Surely there wasn't a dry eye in the place.

The feelings were not much different on one Sunday afternoon, nearly 24 years ago, as Theodore Samuel Williams laid down his bat for the last time. When he belted out a homerun at his final time at bat, the crowd went into hysteria. It was somewhat ironic that the man who replaced Ted Williams received a great if not greater send-off than the "Splendid Splinter" himself. Williams is still missed, and I'm sure Yaz will be missed for many years to come.

I'm sure many older Sox fans experienced tremendous pangs of nostalgia on that Sunday afternoon at "Friendly Fenway," as they relived Yaz' greater moments on the huge scoreboard. Triumphant moments, like the winning of the pennant in 1967, brought spectators to their feet once again. Painful moments, like Yaz cracking his ribs after catching a ball in left field, brought the awesome feeling back to those who remembered it so well. And humorous moments, when Yaz piled dirt on home plate after the ump made a bad call sent the crowd into riotous cheering.

Perhaps the most touching and poignant moment of the game was the end. When Carl Yastrzemski, after 23 years of outstanding performances for the Red Sox, made his final go-round of Fenway Park. Slapping hysterical fans "high-fives," tears clouding his eyes, he completed his trot around the park and entered the dugout with a final tip of the hat and wave of the hand. Every person at Fenway knew they would never forget the great man we called Yaz.

Band news

So far, the Wilmington High School Band has had a great year. At the football games, the band presents a dynamite half-time show which should not be missed. The exciting selections the band is playing this year are: "Prime Time," "Far From Over" (from the movie Staying Alive) and "She Works Hard for the Money" (recorded by Donna Summers). Also part of this year's show are the new uniforms which the flag bearers are wearing.

The new uniforms that the flag carriers wear were purchased with funds raised through last year's candy drive. The candy drive was sponsored by the Wildcat Band Boosters.

Last year was the charter year for the Wildcat Band Boosters. This group consists of parents of band members. Last year the Boosters held Band Parent Day during which the athletic department allowed band parents to attend the football game free. Also, the Boosters provided corsages for mothers of band members. This year, Band Parents Day was held on October 20 during the game against Chelmsford.

As was the case last year, the band will be having a candy drive again this year. The goal is to raise funds to provide for new equipment for the jazz band.

The band officers for the 1984-1985 school year are:

Ms. Mette, faculty advisor; Cindy Bedell, senior president; David Hamilton, president; Stathis Feidzidis, drum major; Gina Carillo, assistant drum major; Diana Murray, Kevin Williams, Sharon Hayward, Laura Duden, quarter masters; Denise Quinn, Tracy Smith, Melissa Elia, flag tri-captains; Michael LaCava, publicity manager; Donna Murray, Laura Valatka, Julie Cassidy, librarians; Eric Peters, equipment manager.

The Wildcat Band is looking forward to a successful year.

SPORTS

Sports focus: Cross Country

by Kelly Halley '87

As I walked through the girls' locker room with my associate, J. I tried to dodge all the girls preparing for a field hockey game. We finally emerged from the room to a sunny field full of football players. It was on this field where I located Mr. Kelley talking to Mr. Cripps. Right in front of them, a group of boys were doing sit-ups. Off in the distance, closer to the football players, was a group of girls warming up.

Mr. Kelley is the coach for both boys' and girls' cross country teams. Mr. Cripps isn't a cross country coach, but he is spending his free time helping out the team in any way he possibly can. The people warming up around the two men, obviously, made up the team. They were preparing to run to and from Town Park in 20 minutes.

The team was made up of 26 girls and 37 boys. Since the beginning of the season only two boys and six girls have turned in their running shoes and quit. Unfortunately, for the team, many excellent runners graduated last year, and there are not enough female runners. (Anyone who is interested is free to join.)

According to Mr. Kelley, the team is dedicated. They never complain, and they're extremely cooperative. They try to be present all the time and if they can't show up they bring notes from home explaining why.

Cross country, like any other sport, does have some outstanding athletes. Andrea Hayden (undefeated at the time of this interview) and Paul Quandt (the boys' team captain) were the first two such athletes to come to Coach Kelley's mind.

The team does have a few goals. They not only want to make personal improvements, but they'd like to win the league championship and the northern and state meets as well.

I watch the runners start off "running to Town Park and back in 20 minutes," I think. My associate, J., sums it up best saying, "That's dedication."

Change of dates

The calendar issued to students at the beginning of the school year listed some erroneous dates regarding the beginnings and endings of marking quarters. The revised dates are as follows:

First quarter ends on November 2; second quarter begins on November 5; third quarter begins on February 1 and ends on April 3; fourth quarter begins on April 4; final grades close on June 24.

National Honor Society news

Dr. Petzy is the advisor for the National Honor Society (N.H.S.). N.H.S. meets at least once a month, unless the students are working on a project, then they would meet more often.

In order to be in the National Honor Society a student must maintain an 85 average after the second quarter of the junior year. Students who wish to be elected to the society must also demonstrate characteristics of leadership and service through involvement in at least three school related activities. Students are ineligible for N.H.S. if any mark is below 70 or if the student has a failing mark in any one subject for a semester or a year.

There is a special banquet in the spring when students are inducted into the National Honor Society.

Before Thanksgiving of this year, National Honor students will be working on senior privileges.

National Honor Society members are as follows: Maria Alpers, Andrea Ausciello, Elizabeth Bouton, Lauren Callahan, Stephen Collins, Janet Crowley, Pamela Davis, April Hunt, Debbie Iocco, Eileen Law, Richard Liggerio, Gail Lombard, Debra Marsolini, James McFadyen, Patricia Mottolo, Kim Nelson, Maureen O'Leary, Michael Pittaro, Julie Richburg, Jennifer St. Onge, and William Woods.

special permit with condition that 250 spaces be provided, etc. The proposed size of the hockey arena shown on site plan was 37,500 square feet, with 250 parking spaces requested. No mention of seating capacity.

July 24, 1984: Town engineer presented site plan and application SPR-84-13 of the proposed hockey arena, 37,500 square feet with 250 parking spaces provided for a seating capacity of 1200 based on the appeals board decision, to the planning board for its recommendation.

July 25, 1984: Planning board made its respective recommendation with conditions to the town engineer.

Should Mr. Ristuccia wish to submit a revised site plan for the proposed hockey arena with a seating capacity of greater than 1200 seats, and a building size greater than 37,500 square feet, he must submit a revised site plan, in accordance with Section 6.5 of the zoning bylaws to the town engineer, to be again referred to the planning board for its recommendation.

Anthony F. Gentile, Chmn., Wilmington Planning Board

The planning board also submitted to the town manager a report on its action at the special town meeting of May 21, 1984. It had recommended approval to rezone from Residence 10 (R10), Residence 20 (R20) and General Business (GB) to all General Business (GB) for the land off Main Street.

It had also recommended that traffic control lights be installed at Richmond - Main Street intersection prior to the occupancy of the proposed building.

In addition it had recommended that the entrance to Route 38, from AMC, Mancini's, Wilmington Transmission and McNamara Tire be closed and that access to these buildings be provided by way of a roadway easement running parallel to Main Street and that the common entrance to all five properties be established directly opposite the Fred F.

Cain Bridge.

On June 28, 1984 the planning board wrote to the appeals board their recommendations relative to an appeal by Albert Reidy, Map 44, Parcel 17 (the arena site).

The planning board had no objections to the appeal board granting the requested variance because of insufficient frontage (on Main Street) with the condition that the access drive to the skating rink (hockey arena) be constructed opposite the Richmond Street bridge and to the satisfaction of the town engineer, thereby conforming to the general plan of the planning board for the Richmond Street - Main Street intersection area.

Furthermore the planning board had no objections to the appeals board granting a special permit to allow 50 less parking spaces with the condition that 97 compact car spaces, 149 standard spaces and four handicapped spaces totalling 250 spaces be provided, and shown on a site plan to be submitted.

The planning board further recommended that the screening of parking areas or other parts of the premises from adjoining residential properties be required by the planting of thick shrubs for the protection of the surrounding neighborhood.

On July 25 a further letter to the town engineer was written by the planning board concerning the site plan review. The following conditions should be observed the board said:

1. The 50 foot access drive to the rink to be constructed opposite the Richmond Street bridge designed to the satisfaction of the town engineer, to assure the convenience and safety of vehicular - pedestrian traffic and the safest driveway opening leading on to Main Street.

2. That screening of parking areas and other parts of the premises from adjoining residential properties be required by the planting of thick shrubs for the protection of the surrounding neighborhood.

3. That a $100,000 performance bond be posted with the Town of Wilmington to secure the construction in accordance with the final approved site plan.

Planning board

turning into a farce.

One concern which stirred up much interest and discussion was the number of parking spaces needed with the new seating capacity. And along with the increase of cars is the possibility of future traffic problems on Main Street, a concern many present tried play down.

Under the original plan, only 250 parking spaces were needed. According to Joel Ristuccia, with the revised plan, they would need upward of 1,700 spaces.

Selectman DePasquale pointed out that the seating capacity, which is still undecided, will be determined by the number of parking spaces available. According to a zoning bylaw, three seats would be allotted to each parking space.

To further complicate matters, Ristuccia offered to donate more property behind the Exxon gas station for reserve parking spaces. Though this seven acre piece of residentially zoned land may have to go before town meeting, it would solve parking space problems should the arena seating plan reach the maximum limit of 6,000 seats.

Michelle DiNatale asked Joel Ristuccia if he would like to live near such a large parking area.

Ristuccia pointed out that many times the arena wouldn't be filled to capacity. As it stands now, the arena is only planned for the school's use and hockey practice, though in the future figure skaters for the Jimmy Fund might put on a show.

DiNatale persisted that financially Ristuccia would have to fill all seats.

Joel Ristuccia replied that the rink doesn't have to cover a mortgage and most rinks don't make money. If he and his family wanted to make money, they could have built another dealership, he retorted.

Another neighbor was concerned with the logic of expanding the parking lot with so many wetlands there.

This, answered Stewart, would have to be reviewed by the conservation commission.

Anne Linehan displayed skepticism with the whole plan. "It wouldn't surprise me what goes in there," she said. Ristuccia could conceivably cover the ice and have trade shows come in. In addressing the audience, Linehan predicted "You asked for it and you're going to get it."

In summary, Bob Cain said that even though there still seems to be some suspicions, he can't give any guarantees to the public. Right now "we seem to be going in the right direction," and we will get the arena built.

Senate candidate

A Wilmington High School teacher is in a lively race for state senator in Somerville and Medford. Through the efforts of the Student Council, $500 has been raised to purchase a pass for the Boston Museum of Science. Wilmington residents may pick up the pass at the public library as soon as it becomes available.

Shawsheen School

The Citystage Co. of the Massachusetts Gas and Electric

Co. will present two performances of a play entitled "Energy Matters" at the Shawsheen School on November 15. The play on energy conservation will encourage student participation.

Wilmington High School

Look for new faces at upcoming Wilmington School Committee meetings. They are Tina Allan, Lisa Cutone, Jennifer Armstrong, Susan Richardson, Kerry Sheehan, Elena Revelas and John Desforge, members of the newly formed Student School Committee which will monitor future committee meetings.

Analog seeks more parking

Analog Devices, Semiconductor Division of Woburn Street, Wilmington has presented a second set of plans to the Wilmington Planning Board, for off street parking in the rear of their place of business. The second plan will accommodate the parking of 400 automobiles.

The original plan was filed on October 9 with an addition of 31,790 square feet to the building.

Wilmington senior topics

Arts and crafts fair Saturday

The Arts and Crafts Fair will be held in the Senior Center this Saturday, Nov. 3 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is plenty room for browsing about the tables or for sitting to enjoy food dishes. Many articles will be needed. Those who have received gifts and never used them should consider donating them to the fair.

Toys either new or old in reasonably good condition could also be used. Any type of pastry or candy would be gratefully accepted along with articles for the white elephant table.

Council meets Monday

The Council on Aging will meet Monday, Nov. 5 in the Senior Center at 1:30 p.m. An update on the renovation of the Buzzell School into a multi purpose senior citizen center will be given by the renovation committee. Much has transpired since the last meeting, this will be revealed at this meeting. The committee will also thank all seniors who have been so generous in their sacrifices to the renovation fund, as well as others in town who have helped in the fund raising.

Election day

Tuesday, November 6 is election day. As Americans, seniors have the distinct privilege of voting for the person of their choice. Seniors are urged not to pass up this opportunity. Only those who cast their ballot have any right to complain.

Seniors who need transportation to and from the polls are asked to call the center, at 657-7595.

Shut ins

Shut in applications will be filled out this week. Those who have not already called the center for an appointment are urged to do so. Seniors are urged to remember to have their income checks copied.

Exercise class

The exercise class under the instruction of a physical therapist takes place each Monday and Wednesday morning from 9 to 10. These exercises are oriented to older people both disabled and healthy and are not strenuous but are effective. A few more seniors are needed to fill the class at the present time there are 16 participants, the leaders would like to have 20 members.

Senior citizen mass

Father McAndrew will say a senior citizen mass Tuesday morning, November 13 at 10:30 at St. Dorothy's. Confessions will be heard before the mass.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending October 30, Wilmington police officers responded to 17 accidents, 14 alarms, made 20 arrests and four protective custody detentions.

Officers assisted other departments on 14 occasions, including a fire; six larcenies were investigated along with nine incidents of suspicious activity.

Medical assistance was rendered three times; four trailbikes, and nine involving traffic and one threat were logged. Four vehicles were reported stolen, one stolen vehicle was recovered, two cases of assault and battery were investigated and four domestic problems were quieted.

One firearms complaint was logged, one person was reported missing and seven incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

A Billerica woman was arrested early Wednesday morning after an investigation of an accident on Aldrich Road. Denise LaPlante, 31, of River Road, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. She was bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court. Her case was continued to November 7.

Early Friday morning Officers Neville and Shepard arrested two men on drug charges. Ralph DiTucci, 19, of Kilby Street, Woburn and Edmund DaMelio, 21, of Dunton Road, Wilmington were both charged with possession of controlled substances in both class B and D. They were arraigned Friday morning and their cases were continued to November 13 in Woburn District Court.

Friday at 6:25 p.m., Peter Kloosterman, of Main Street, Billerica was arrested for being a minor transporting alcohol. Also arrested were Chris Ford of Dorothy Avenue, Wilmington; Matthew Currie, 18, of Timberneck Drive; Bradford Roberts of Pasture Road; Bruce Reardon of Pennsylvania Street; James Accomando of Evergreen Road; Joseph Pizano of Dean Street; Mark Thomann of Walnut Street; Brian Phelan of Pinedale Road all of Reading.

All were arrested on the same charge - being minors in possession of alcohol, by the newly created A team.

At 12:01 a.m. Saturday, David Forster of Boutwell Street, Wilmington was arrested by Officer King for OUI, operating to endanger, operating an unregistered, uninsured vehicle and attaching plates assigned to another motor vehicle.

Brothers meet again A 62 year absence

By CHERYL MURRAY

Can you imagine having a brother or a sister and not seeing them for over 62 years?

Well, Frank Francoise of Tewksbury can. "I left Italy in 1920, I was about 18, my brother Peter was about nine. I hadn't seen him since."

Frank came to America because he said, "I liked to travel."

According to Frank, he planned to go back to Italy after visiting the United States, but a friend told him to stay. "he'd like it here."

Frank did stay. He married and worked in a leather shop in Woburn.

"I wrote a few letters to my parents and then I just lost touch," he said.

"I wasn't sure how to go about finding other members of my family and therefore have not seen them since."

Recently Frank made a visit to California where he met his brother Peter's son.

According to his nephew, Peter, who now lives in Argentina, had been looking for Frank.

"Peter was in Massachusetts for six months and I didn't know it," said Frank.

Peter finally found Frank sometime last month and they were reunited after 63 years.

"It was beautiful, very beautiful," said Frank.

While Peter was visiting, the two brothers were able to enjoy a cookout and a variety of other activities together.

"I liked his wife and he liked my wife," Frank said.

Frank Francoise will be 81 in December.

"After so many years without having contact you have time to forget," he said. "Now I miss him all over again. I wish he lived here instead."

After a happy reunion, Peter and his wife returned to Argentina.

Frank resides in Tewksbury with his wife Mary.

Frank also had another younger brother whom he also had not seen since he left Italy.

He learned his brother was killed in a motorcycle accident about four or five years ago in Italy.

Frank also has a sister in Italy, he has not seen or heard from her since he left Italy in 1921.

"She doesn't know where I am and I only know she is somewhere in Italy," said Frank.

Halloween Poem

ON HALLOWEEN

The air is cold and blustery
The moon will shed no light
The goblins and ghosts are restless

'Cause the witch won't ride tonight.

The moon refuses to show her face
Up there among the clouds,
And haunting figures are hovering about Wearing their Halloween shrouds.

The brave who venture out tonight
Should not in a graveyard dwell,
'Cause the witch will be out to get you
Before the clock strikes twelve.

So stay indoors and take my advice
Make sure you stay out of sight
'Cause the goblins and ghosts are restless
Their witch won't be riding tonight.

According to Frank, Peter will visit him again next year and then he will find out more information about his sister.

"Peter and I write letters now. He wants to know how I am and things like that," said Frank.

"I miss him," he said.

REUNITED AT LAST are brothers Frank (left) and Peter Francoise who met again for the first time in 63 years. Frank left Italy in 1921 and Peter settled in Argentina after the war.

Puerto Rico — Sights Outshine the Sun

Ponce de Leon never found his elusive Fountain of Youth nor the gold which the Spanish had hoped to find in Puerto Rico, but the island discovered by Columbus in 1493 held a wealth of nature's treasures which still remain in abundance today.

Leaving the Royal Caribbean Sun Viking at San Juan, we took a giant step back into history on an island that blends Old World Spanish flavor with New World U. S. influence. The Sun Viking docked early in the morning and remained in port until 2 a.m. the following morning giving the passengers ample time for sightseeing, swimming, shopping and night life.

League of Women Voters Questions and Answers

Q. How can I get a copy of the report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education which has been referred to so much?

A. The report is available for $4.50 a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. Ask for "A Nation at Risk: The Imperative for Educational Reform." — stock number 065-000-0017-2.

Q. Is there a limit set on the amount of money a person may contribute to a political candidate?

A. By Massachusetts law, a person may not contribute more than $1,000 per year to any one candidate.

Q. How many votes in the electoral college must a candidate receive to be elected President?

A. A candidate must receive an absolute majority (270) of the total of 538 votes in the electoral college to be elected. If no candidate receives this number, the election is thrown into the House of Representatives where each state delegation has one vote.

Q. Is there a state agency that handles complaints about lawyers?

A. It is the responsibility of the Board of the Bar Overseers and the Office of the Bar Counsel to investigate complaints and to recommend appropriate disciplinary action against attorneys who have been found guilty by the Overseers of Misconduct. Fee complaints should be taken to the Arbitration Board of the Massachusetts Bar. Information about non-fee related complaint procedures is explained in a pamphlet from the Office of the Bar Counsel, Eleven Beacon Street, Boston, MA 02108.

Young People's Theatre presents Horror High

The Silver Lake Spotlighters of Wilmington are well on the way to a successful second season with their Young People's Theatre Workshop program. More than thirty young people from Wilmington and the surrounding areas are involved in the three-days-a-week program.

Currently, the young people enrolled in the program attend classes on Saturdays in Movement, Acting and Design. Tuesday and Thursday evenings are specifically scheduled for rehearsals.

Upcoming is the YPT production of Tim Kelley's Horror High on November 17 and 18. The play is a spoof of the horror film era and quite appropriate with the advent of the Halloween season. A wonderful farce in two acts, Horror High will thrill audiences with the introduction of a series of strange characters who carry chainsaws and sticks of dynamite. Mystery and intrigue abound with several twists in the plot including the unexplainable disappearance of several characters.

Featured in the production are several Wilmington High School students: Tina, Anne and Alicia are completing their second season with the Workshop. In addition to their roles in the production, all three students hold Board of Director positions with the YPT Organization.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the box office at 657-8589 or Monday, Tuesday or Thursday evenings between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. and on Saturdays between 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Cruising on the Royal Caribbean Sun Viking

Lying between the Atlantic and Caribbean, this rectangular 3,500 square-mile member of the Greater Antilles is home to 3.2 million. Spanish is the official language but those working in tourism and service fields are fluent in English. The island is comprised of a magnificent central mountain range surrounded by low coastal plains, extending into 272 miles of sand and sea. This topography of unsurpassed natural beauty combined with a comfortable climate makes Puerto Rico a year-round vacation destination. Columbus first christened the island San Juan Bautista, but the name was changed to Puerto Rico meaning "rich port" by Juan Ponce de Leon, the first governor, who called its first settlement San Juan after his patron saint.

The construction in 1539 of El Morro fortress, a six-level stronghold rising 140 feet above San Juan harbor, provided the Spanish with protection against invasion by the French, Dutch, and English, specifically Sir Francis Drake, who was defeated in 1595. These moss-covered battlements are now a National Historic Site and attract thousands of tourists annually. El Morro recently was selected to become a member of the elite group of the world's most famous monuments.

Its partner in defense is San Cristobal, a 27-acre fortress built at the other end of the old city in 1771.

After over 400 years of Spanish domination, Puerto Rico was occupied by the United States during the Spanish-American War and became a U.S. territory under the Treaty of Paris in 1899. The residents were granted citizenship in 1917 and the island became a Commonwealth of the U.S. in 1952 receiving a constitution and self-government.

Under American rule, the economy prospered, the sugar industry developed and education and public health programs were initiated. Tax credits brought in industry to build up the economy, however, unemployment remains high. Today the island's future status — to remain a Commonwealth, become the 51st state or become independent — remains uncertain.

Old San Juan — A Living Museum

Old San Juan is a walled city with centuries of history crammed into seven square blocks. The narrow winding streets, laid out almost 500 years ago under the vision of Ponce de Leon and the other conquistadors, are paved with cobblestone brought over on the Spanish galleons. There are museums, chapels, parks, shops, restaurants and quiet courtyards hidden behind old facades in this second oldest city in the Western Hemisphere.

Under operation Bootstrap started in 1947, 10-year tax incentives were granted to investors in the old decaying buildings resulting in a massive renovation project which has preserved Puerto Rico's cultural and historical heritage.

In addition to the two great fortresses, historical landmarks include the Church of San Jose, second oldest in this hemisphere and Ponce de Leon's resting place until his remains were moved to the tomb in the restored San Juan Cathedral in 1913; Casablanca (white house) the home of Ponce de Leon's descendants and now a museum; La Fortaleza, the oldest executive mansion in the hemisphere dating back to 1540 and serving 170 governors, overlooking Old San Juan Gate; and the Dominican Convent of 1523 now housing the Institute of Puerto Rican Culture, to name only a sampling of the interesting sights.

In marked contrast is the metropolitan area of San Juan, built on a former sugar plantation. The concrete and metal high rise buildings and super-highways of the contemporary city co-exist with the historic old city. Modern hospitals, banks, hundreds of industrial plants, University of Puerto Rico, Roberto Clemente Sports Complex, housing projects and shopping centers of up to 190 stores, stretch out from the old city. Spanish villa-style homes line the tree-shaded streets in the residential section surrounded by gardens and wrought iron fences and trim.

Luxury hotels, condos, casinos, night clubs, gourmet and fast food restaurants, fill the extensive Condado Beach area which comes alive after dark with glittering night life.

Tourism officials led by the dynamic Frances Rios de Moran, Executive Director of Puerto Rican Tourism, joined us for lunch featuring delicious native cuisine at the delightful La Casona in a restored mansion. A discussion of the United States and Puerto Rican problems and relations gave us a better understanding of their country. The afternoon ended with a refreshing swim at the Caribe Hilton on Condado Beach.

There is more to Puerto Rico than San Juan for those who have time to tour the island. El Yunque rain forest is the only one of its kind in the U.S. National Forest system and there are Indian ceremonial sites dating back to 400 A.D., remaining from the original settlers, the Tainos. Festivals galore for every occasion are to be found and LeLoLai Folkloric Festival is celebrated year-round. Is there any wonder that the island claims that sight-seeing outshines the sun?

Since the 19th century the island has been a major exporter of sugar, coffee and tobacco and increases have been made in agriculture. Manufacturing, especially of basic and high tech goods, is the chief source of Puerto Rican economy but tourism is on the increase. Puerto Rico is the home of the Pina Colada, but Bicardi rum had been on strike for six months when we were there so our tour did not include a popular stop at the factory.

After a full day of sightseeing the Sun Viking was a welcome retreat. Our group decided to forego the night club tour of San Juan, enjoying a Spanish dinner and entertainment and movie aboard ship.

Next Week: St. Thomas

Test soil now

Along with the colorful foliage and harvest of apples, pumpkins and winter squash, comes the abandoned garden patch. Late September and early October bring the end of the 1984 garden harvest. Home vegetable gardeners should then start preparing the soil for next year by adding either mulch, fertilizer, lime or organic matter.

Thurston Handley, Home Horticulture Specialist at the Middlesex County Extension Service suggests that home gardeners bring a soil sample to their County Extension Service Office before the ground freezes in November, to determine the pH, (lime recommendations) and fertilizer requirements. Included with the soil sample should be a list of crops to be grown and specific garden problems or deficiency symptoms that were evident in the garden this past season.

The pH testing and recommendations are free of charge and usually take about two weeks. Begin preparing for next year's garden this fall, and avoid the spring rush when results may be delayed just when it's time to start planting.

At least one cup of soil will be needed for an accurate test. With a trowel or shovel, dig from the surface down 6 inches, making a v-shaped hole, removing a thin slice from top to bottom. This should be done in each quarter section and the center of the area. Combine these samples in a clean container, and mix thoroughly. If soil is wet and soggy, place on clean wax paper to dry in the air. There is a limit of three samples per person. Samples should be brought or mailed to the Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett St., Concord, Ma. 01742. The homeowners' name and address and the crops to be grown should be included.

'Cinderella' comes to North Reading

Local residents from surrounding towns will be seen in the upcoming North Reading Theatre Workshop's production of "Cinderella," the world famous fairy tale whose theme of "nothing is impossible if you dream" has delighted children for centuries.

This production of "Cinderella" is an adaptation of the original Rodgers' and Hammerstein musical which featured Julie Andrews; a later version starred Lesley Ann Warren and Stuart Damon as Cinderella and Prince Charming. This is a full-scale musical which will feature original costume and lighting design, and is directed and choreographed by Paul D. Greene of Andover.

"Cinderella" will be presented on Dec. 1 and 2 and Dec. 7 and 8 at North Reading High School, with a special afternoon matinee on Sunday, Dec. 2. For further information, please contact Juli Wood, 24 Haverhill St., North Reading (telephone 664-3949).

Infants' sleeping patterns

A few babies may establish a regular schedule for eating and sleeping at the end of two months. A "self-demand" schedule of feeding which is more difficult for the parents, contributes to the baby's development of a sense of trust.

Baby's need for sleeping and walking varies widely. Some babies take a longer time for adjusting to adult life styles and their families.

As babies grow they are able to take large amounts of food and stay awake for longer periods of time.

Increased activities, interactions with people and to be outdoors usually helps the infant sleep longer. A quiet dark night time environment may make staying awake at night less interesting.

VEGETARIAN COOKING

Learn how to cook new dishes without using meat at a new class being offered by New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Taught by Julie Marcell, a registered dietitian, the four-session class begins Wednesday, November 14 and will be held from 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the GBA Home Economics classroom on the grounds of NEMH.

Participants will receive hands-on experience in preparing and sampling four different types of food: Mexican, Italian, Chinese, and Greek. There will also be demonstrations, lectures, and films. Class members will receive dozens of low-fat, low-cholesterol recipes to try at home. Fee for the course is $35.00.

For information and to register, contact the Health Education department at New England Memorial Hospital — 665-1740, ext. 414.

ACUPUNCTURE AND DIGESTIVE DISORDERS

Acupuncture is a method of healing the body that originated in China approximately 5,000 years ago. It is a natural healing therapy in that it works to create a balance in the body's function. There are no drugs used and consequently no side effects. The body is brought back to a state of health from which point the individual can maintain his health. The acupuncture needles are very fine and therefore relatively painless.

A free lecture on acupuncture and its treatment of digestive disorders will be held at the Stoneham Medical and Diabetes Clinic, 106 Main St., Stoneham, Ma. on Tuesday, November 6 at 7:30 P.M. Reservations are necessary.

For reservations and/or information call 438-6132.

BUSINESS WOMEN

The North Bay Chapter of the American Business Women's Association holds a monthly dinner meeting the first Tuesday of each month. Please contact Judy McCabe at 438-4897 or Sally Chapman at 438-0968 after 6 P.M. in the evening for further information. We feature many interesting and informative speakers, and enjoy many fringe benefits as a National Organization.

"Presently we are selling chances to raise money for our scholarship fund. First prize is a cabbage patch doll, 2nd prize Trivial Pursuit and Third Prize $25.00.

NURSING MOTHERS

"Typical" Baby Behavior — What to Expect" will be the topic at this month's meeting of the Nursing Mothers Council. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 31 at 7:00 p.m. at the Wakefield Public Library.

This informal discussion will focus on the various stages of infant development and help to provide a better understanding of the variations in norms. Parenting is a challenge and can sometimes seem overwhelming. These free meetings, held the last Wednesday of each month at the library, offer new parents the opportunity to explore various aspects of early parenting as well as information and support to breastfeeding mothers.

Trained volunteers offer 24-hour a day telephone counseling for nursing mothers.

For more information call Barbara Low of Melrose 665-3405.

FAMILIES NEEDED

Youth Exchange Service (YES) is offering American families to learn more about another country by sharing their homes with an International teenage student ages 15 to 18 from all over the world, coming for 3 months or one second semester (6 months), arriving in December, 1984-January, 1985. Host families provide room and board and may receive $50.00 tax deduction for each month they host a student. For further information, please contact Youth Exchange Service (YES), 350 South Figueroa Street, Suite 257-P, Los Angeles, California 90071, or you can call toll free at (800) 848-2121.

ADULT LEARNING

The DIAL Program needs you! Can you spare a few hours a week to help others? If you are interested in helping people from other cultures and can spare a few hours per week, why not join our volunteer program.

The DIAL Program is a non-profit agency devoted to providing immigrants, refugees and linguistic-minorities with English language skills and cultural orientation.

Volunteers are men and women of all ages, from all walks of life, who are willing to tutor on a regular basis. Tutor training is provided by the DIAL Program. Volunteers teach a minimum of two hours a week and can work at Hanscom Air Force Base or in local communities. This can be satisfying teaching and learning experience. There will be a $10 fee for training and materials. Call the DIAL office at 631-2022 for more information.

HEALING WITH MUSIC

"Make Me An Instrument," a concert-workshop, will be presented by Sarah Benson at a meeting of the Greater Boston Chapter of Psi Symposium at the Follen Church, 755 Mass. Ave., Lexington, on Thursday evening, November 1 at 8 P.M.

The workshop will explore the transformative, healing power of sound and music, learning to reduce pain and stress, increase energy flow, center and open the sound within. Sarah Benson, M.A., musician, poet, teacher and counselor, is co-founder of Heartsound Center for Music and Health, board member of N.E. Sound Healers, has performed and recorded with Clearing, Sumitra, On Wings of Song and Heartsound, and is advisor of students in Expressive Therapies at local colleges.

She will follow this program with an intensive on Sunday, November 4, from 1 to 5 P.M. at Chelmsford UU Church.

Future programs include "About a Course in Miracles" with Ralph and Denny Donaldson of Sudbury, leaders of groups in this study for the past seven years on December 6; and Palmistry and Hand Analysis", "doorway to the mind — to know thyself and others" led by James Fiore of Medford on January 3.

Meetings, on the first Thursday of each month, are open to all interested in new age philosophies, wholistic living and spiritual growth.

LINCOLN PLAYERS

Everything's coming up roses when the Lincoln Players present the Jule Styne-Stephen Sondheim show Gypsy on two November weekends: Fridays and Saturdays November 9 and 10 and November 16 and 17.

SMOKE-OUT

Millions of Americans will be taking a day off from smoking by joining the American Cancer Society's Smoke-Out on November 15th — you can start early with New England Memorial Hospital's Five Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Held in the evenings from 7:00 to 8:30, November 11-15, in the Administrative Services Building at NEMH, the course seminars explore the motive for stopping smoking, understanding smoking behavior, and ways to hasten and ease withdrawal.

A professional staff, including a physician and health educator, will give participants detailed instructions on how to become completely independent of tobacco and how to make the psychological adjustments to being a non-smoker.

Fee for the course is $45. For information and to register, contact the Health Education department at New England Memorial Hospital — 665-1740, ext. 426.

CARDIAC CLASSES

A five-week cardiac education program, open to the public, will be offered by Winchester Hospital beginning on November 9. The classes will be held Fridays from 10 — 11:30 a.m. in the Kingsbury Seminar Room located in the basement of the Hospital's new Hood Wing.

Topics to be discussed will be the process of coronary artery disease, cardiac risk factors, nutrition, exercise and methods to help deal with everyday stress.

Those who wish to attend are asked to call the education department of Winchester Hospital between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. There is a small fee for the course.

HEIMLICH MANEUVER

You don't have to be helpless if a relative or a friend suddenly starts choking. The Melrose-Wakefield Hospital is offering the public a one-hour course on how to perform the Heimlich Maneuver on someone who is choking.

The course, "The Miracle Maneuver," will be held at the hospital's Perkins Lecture Hall, 585 Lebanon Street, Melrose, on November 1 at 7:30 p.m. The cost of the course is $2.

To register for this course that will teach you a dependable, simple way to dislodge an object from a choking victim's throat, just call the hospital's Education Department at 662-7200 ext. 3508.

FIREARMS RESPONSIBILITY

A firearms responsibility course will be held at the North Reading Rifle Club Inc. 242 Central Street, North Reading, Ma.

The purpose of the course is to provide information and instruction on the safe handling and use of firearms, whether used for hunting, target shooting or self protection.

The course will be presented by Robert Rosel a NRA certified instructor, in two evenings.

The course will be held Wednesday evenings beginning in December, 1984 and continue each week until all registered individuals have completed the course. Your exact instruction date will be provided during registration.

The course fee for ages 17 years old and up will be $15. For ages 10 to 16 years old the fee is $5 if accompanied by an adult.

To register for the course, contact Robert Rose in North Reading, at 664-2703.

LOVE AND LAUGHTER

The Burlington Players are back again with another season of fine community theatre. Once again providing us with what they're best at, the Players will be presenting two one-act plays on November 10, 16, and 17, and are calling the show "A Night of Love and Laughter". Representing the former will be a play called (appropriately enough) "Lovers" by the famed Irish playwright, Brian Friel. Part two of "Lovers", "Losers", is being directed by Al Hodder, who recently entertained us by directing "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate".

The cast of four includes Al Pirnie as Andrew Tracey. Al is best remembered for the lead in "Seven Keys", as well as his many contributions in Cabaret presentations. Joanna Flint of Lexington, a newcomer to the Players, shares her delightful heritage of 21 years in Dublin, as Hannah Wilson Tracey. Liz Prevett of Burlington portrays Cissy Cassidy, a devout friend and neighbor. Liz is also a new member of the Players. The elderly Mrs. Wilson is ably portrayed by Susan Hodder of Burlington. Susan has performed in and choreographed many Cabarets as well as having directed this past summer's production of "Godspell".

The "Scheme of the Shiftless Shifter" is an hilarious one-act comedy written by Carolyn Lane. This is a "mixed-up melodrama", and a play within a play. A cast of 15 includes many long-time favorites for Burlington theatre going audiences including Phil Harding, Shirley Hodder, Fred Robbins, Alma Venditti, Pat Yates, and Sandy Pirnie. John Marshall, Marci Milesky, Kathy Connors, Don Kelley, Paula Craig, and Easter Putnam are also members of the Players from past productions. Newcomers to the group include Rachel Howard, E.J. Gaffey, and Meg Lewis.

Ticket information for the shows which will be presented at the Marshall Simonds Middle School on November 10, 16, and 17, may be obtained by calling 229-2625 or 272-7220.

Art & craft show

The members of the Artisans' Guild of Burlington will hold their second annual Art & Craft Show on Saturday, Nov. 3 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. at Ethan Allen Galleries, Crossroads Plaza, Cambridge St., Burlington. From Rt. 128 take Exit 41S. Woodcarvings and dry flower arrangements will be among the demonstrations.

Harvest fair in Stoneham

On Saturday, Nov. 3 at the First Congregational Church 1725 Old New England Harvest Fair, the Massachusetts Electric Company will introduce to Stoneham the exciting new energy conservation project — an energy van — between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. This 35 foot vehicle is equipped with exhibits, demonstrations and literature that showcase energy conservation and related topics. The van will be used to take the Massachusetts Electric energy conservation program "on the road." — to public locations such as The First Congregational Church on Main Street in Stoneham.

The van has been designed to be entertaining and informative. The exhibits, which are lively and allow participation, include short video presentations on do-it-yourself conservation techniques, an explanation of how solar water heating works, a home energy conservation computer, an energy I.Q. test, and much more. A full time operator and support people take total responsibility for operating the van.

Come to the First Congregational Church 1725 Old New England Harvest Fair on Saturday, Nov. 3 and visit the energy van parked on Congress Street and then come to the fair and bring friends for exciting ideas, coffee hour, luncheon, baked bean supper, giant evening auction, and fun and fellowship for all ages!

Nature facts

Pennsylvania pigeons are literally burning bridges behind them, reports National Wildlife magazine. Apparently, pigeon droppings mix with rain to form acids potent enough to eat through steel girders. According to state bridge engineer Jerry Jackson, over several decades the droppings rot the steel, weakening structures to the point where a weight limit must be imposed or the bridges closed altogether.

IT'S A FACT!
The 1960's was a decade of change and television played a big part in that change. John Kennedy and television sort of rode into town together. It's been said he was our first television President, and that his charisma punched right through the screen. What was true in life was true in death. His was the first televised assassination and state funeral.

Lowell National Park fall schedule

Lowell National Historical Park and Lowell Heritage State Park announce the new fall tour schedule through December 22, 1984. All tours are free and last approximately ninety minutes. Reservations may be made by calling (617) 459-1000, or in person at the Park Visitor Center located at 246 Market Street (corner of Market and Dutton Streets in downtown Lowell). Special arrangements may be made in advance for school groups or organizations requesting alternative tour themes or times. All tours begin at the Park Visitor Center in the Market Mills Complex.

The Visitor Center, open daily from 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., houses exhibits on labor, capital, power, machines, and the industrial city. "Lowell: The Industrial Revelation", a spectacular multi-image slide show, is presented twice each hour.

The tour schedule Monday through Friday is:

Lowell History - 9:30 a.m.

Explore the history of the city that was once the greatest textile center in America. The story of Lowell's workforce, the growth of an industrial city, its decline and rebirth are all part of this tour.

Tunes and Tales - 10:30 a.m.,

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

This absorbing, live performance of mill tunes immigrant melodies, and labor songs is presented in the Visitor Center auditorium by Park Music specialist Alexander Demas. Vocals are self-accompanied on an array of folk instruments including banjo, fiddle, mandolin, and Appalachian dulcimer.

Suffolk Mill - 10:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

Visit the Suffolk Mill and learn about the production of cotton textiles and the use of waterpower in a 19th century factory. Turbines and an operating power loom will be part of your experience on this tour.

Mill Girls and Immigrants - 11:00 a.m.

The story of Lowell's factory operatives from the famous "mill girls" of early Lowell to later generations of immigrant workers. How were their experiences the same? How were they different? Come and see where they lived and worked.

WATERPOWER - 1:00 p.m.

How did water move the machinery of Lowell's vast mill complexes? This tour highlights the golden era of waterpower in the 1800's. Visit nearby gatehouses, canals, and the dam at Swamp Locks.

For more information on the Park's tours and activities, contact Lowell National Historical Park, 169 Merrimack Street, Lowell, Ma. 01852, (617) 459-1000.

Family affair candy store since 1917

By MATT RILLOVICK

Ever since his parents opened the candy shop downtown in 1917, Arthur Connelly has seen the sweet product of that operation become a Lynn tradition. Now after 62 years of nurturing growth of the famous name in fudge, chocolate, Arthur Connelly is guiding the "changing of the guard" at his chocolate shop as the Mazzaferro family of Nahant gradually learns the trade secrets.

"For a number of years I've been looking for the 'right folks' to take over the business," Connelly admits. "It wasn't a matter of simply selling the business — hell, I could have done that several times ... I wanted someone dedicated, someone who would continue the traditions built over the years."

"This is not an easy business as it would appear in the quaintly decorated retail shops; it's a combination of hard work adherence to traditional formula and strict levels of quality, and providing value for the customer's dollar."

FAMILY AFFAIR

"When the Mazzaferro family entered the picture," Connelly continued, "I felt comfortable. I knew the business would be continued, by local people — the love affair with 'Connelly's Candies' would pass on to new generations."

Connelly completed the transfer of the business, the paper transfer to the Mazzaferros, last July first at which time he agreed to stay on for two years guiding the transition. That transition includes the transfer of some 125 closely guarded recipes along with production knowhow for creating chocolate and other sweet delights.

LONG HISTORY

The Mazzaferro family brings to the business a long history involved in sweet shop merchandising, and an eager young family with business instincts as well as academic credentials.

Family elder, Domenic, stepped down as a principal leaving the operation of Connelly's Candies to his three sons, and, of course, his lovely wife Maria (Guigio).

Dom is native to Springfield as is his wife, where he graduated from Springfield Classical in 1933, smack in the middle of the Big Depression. He joined the Springfield News as circulation-promotion manager until 1941, when he enlisted in the Air Force to serve in the China-Burma-India Theatre until discharge in 1945. He returned to the newspaper as a stereotyper.

When caught in the middle of a labor strike in 1946, Dom Mazzaferro branched into a new direction for some kind of family security; he opened an ice cream parlor later incorporated as the Lida Candy Company (so-named for his young children Linda and Dan, now 31 and 33 respectively).

NAHANT BUSINESS

Although a luncheonette remains there in Springfield now, Dom moved on to Boston newspaper work in 1955, while taking up residence in Nahant. While Dom worked as a stereotyper and platemaker with all the Hub newspapers at one time or another, the family pursued a specialty candy kiss business out of their Nahant home. Over the years the Lida Candy Co. prepared private label candy kisses for the old Kennedy Butter and Egg Stores and many other entities. They developed a line of candy Christmas canes, a special 9-foot model being displayed during last Yuletide at Faneuil Hall in Boston.

Linda is married and resides in New York; Dan is a CPA and Shawmut Bank executive; Tom, 26 is a former independent Lobsterman; and youngest son Mike, 23, is a 1978 Harvard grad with a degree in economics.

LEARNING THE TRADE

Dan and Mike have actively worked the production lines and mixing rooms at Connelly's complex at Union Walkway since last Valentine's Day gaining familiarity with the business. In the year of indoctrination throughout the 15,000 square feet of floor space, the younger Mazzaferros have learned a great many of the secrets of sweets success, and have also, incorporated equipment from their candy kiss operation to complete the capability.

They have learned the intricacies of the soft-center conveyor system where up to 80-pounds of chocolates representing 3,500 different chocolate treats an hour are packed at the line end for stores inventory.

They have acquired the knack of ordering timely and proper quantities of sugar in 100 pound bags, finest grade pure chocolate in 25-pound boxes in 2,500-pound lots. They recognize the art and science of packing — such as the special Connelly's Valentine hearts last week being produced in 500 to 700-pounds daily to meet demands of the February 14 trade, and the steady 800-pound packaging routine for standard Connelly one, two and five pound boxes.

"From the time I was a kid," Mike offered, "Connelly's fudge was always mentioned as the best in the candy business, and it was something that always intrigued me. Now when I see all the work and quality that goes into the product, I know why it is considered the best."

Connelly, veteran among Lynn's businessmen, purchased the entire downtown block where the plant is located. Since 1975 he has expanded the production operation to the point where it is today a smooth and efficient plant.

He injected a thought significant in the transfer of the business.

"It's important to me that the Mazzaferro family succeed here, that's why I'm dedicating my time. And, he volunteered, "they're receptive to suggestions and show deep appreciation for Connelly's famed recipes. They're a great combination, and I can see tremendous future growth for them."

SALES INCREASE

One area is of special interest to the new owners, an area in which Connelly claims sales doubled in the first five months of last year. With the wily Connelly to lead them, the Mazzaferros will extend even more emphasis in the institutional fundraising candy field.

Going over the figures, Mike notes an employee fluctuation between 30 and 60 depending on the season and number of part time help required. As president-treasurer of the corporation Mike will have the responsibility to control such overhead factors. Tom is clerk

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

American Dreamer Amadeus

American Dreamer Starring Jobeth Williams, Tom Conti, Giancarlo Giannini. Directed by Rick Rosenthal. Produced by Doug Chapin. Screenplay by Jim Kouf and David Greenwalt. PG (profanity, violence.)

American Dreamer is one of those wonderfully entertaining movies that falls into the Don't Think About It, Just Watch category. If you think about the storyline, then the plot holes become apparent. But, if you just watch and laugh and relax, then it proves to be greatly amusing.

Now that we have established the fact that this flick will not improve your mind, we can get on to the important aspects of this romantic comedy. Jobeth Williams and Tom Conti are simply electric together. Williams is a very funny woman, something that has not been apparent in her other films, no doubt due to the fact that she has never before starred in a comedic role.

Williams stars as Cathy Palmer, a housewife saddled to an extreme bore. Palmer escapes suburbia for a week when she writes a story based on the Rebecca Ryan romance thrillers, and wins a trip to Paris. Shortly after her arrival, she is hit on the head and awakes believing she is indeed Rebecca Ryan, spy extraordinaire. It is then that Williams takes off. She is flamboyant, extravagant, and has a great sense of timing. Williams looks like she's having a great time and manages to let everyone in on the fun.

Williams' cohort is the lovable Tom Conti, who fits in somewhere between cuddly Dudley Moore and charismatic Alan Alda (most female readers will understand this — sexist, but true!) Conti manages a kind of controlled hysteria that nicely balances the eccentricities shown by his leading lady.

Williams and Conti, however, are what makes this picture click, as director Rick Rosenthal barely keeps the action under control. There are too many sappy moments, most of the picture is totally contrived of the corporation, and Dan will pour over the books — as well as the mixing kettles, in his spare time.

Presently the Mazzaferros are installing a 2,000 gallon corn syrup tank on site with automatic controls for feed to the various steam-vacuum and open fire cooking vessels. Other than new equipment installations, the Connelly products will continue in the quality tradition.

100 YEARS EXPERIENCE

All considered, Connelly's Candies are now being prepared with an accumulated experience of over 100 years between Connelly and the Mazzaferro families.

Experience coupled with the discipline and progressive attitudes of the old and new assures Connelly's Candies' wide clientele of continuing mouth-watering sweet treats.

The distinct recipes remain — only the faces change.

and there is a superfluous ending that counteracts a happy scene that would have endeared this film to all hopeless romantics had it ended ten minutes earlier. However, if you view this expecting a breezy, fun, little film, then you'll have a good time. As you can tell, this reviewer did.

Amadeus Starring F. Murray Abraham, Tom Hulce, Elizabeth Berridge. Directed by Milos Forman. Produced by Saul Zaentz. Screenplay by Peter Shaffer. Rated PG (profanity.)

There is a rumor circulating that if you have seen Amadeus the play, then the film of the same name appears shallow and trite. That may be so, but never having seen the play, this reviewer found Amadeus to be a touching, intriguing film.

Based on the story of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (Tom Hulce) and the intense hatred he invoked in his rival, Antonio Salieri (F. Murray Abraham,) the eighteenth century court composer to Emperor Joseph II.

This is an objective story, not a factual biography, filled with glorious music and lavish costumes. It is not meant as a succinct interpretation of the life and possible murder of Mozart, but rather an explanation of what might have happened. The ending is more subtle and unexpected than you would think, and Hulce is inspired as the giggling, decadent composer who never grows up. Abraham is equally believable as the dark, brooding Italian composer.

TIPSY — Cathy Palmer (Jobeth Williams) becomes involved in a series of international escapades beyond her wildest dreams in the madcap comedy "American Dreamer," a Warner Bros. release.

POEM

A MOMENT ALONE

It's Five AM
The sun will be up soon
I, who had witnessed the day end
With the coming of the moon
I must walk now
Before the world awakes
If I am to see it alone

It's mine
This great solitude
For just a little while

Soon I must give it to others
The kind, and gentle
The mean, and the cruel

But I give it with a smile
For they do not know
The pleasure behind my face

The moments when this world
Is truly a sacred place.

Federal employees use 64 percent more sick time (nine days) than private sector employees in non-manufacturing industries (5.5 days), according to the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, headed by J. Peter Grace.

Grace

The Pentagon has been buying screws, available in any hardware store for three cents, for $91 each.

Director Milos Forman doesn't let this longish flick dissolve into a rambling epic. He successfully employs such tricks as playing each instrument in The Requiem as Mozart composes the music, and sequentially adding instruments as the piece grows in Mozart's mind. This is one flick you should catch before it moves out of suburban cinemas into obscurity.

Old Enough Starring Sarah Boyd, Rainbow Harvest. Directed and written by Marisa Silver. Produced by Dina Silver. Rated PG (profanity.)

If you are looking for cute, unpretentious entertainment, then Old Enough fits the bill as an endearing story of the budding friendship between a wealthy, advantaged girl (Sarah Boyd) and her poor, streetwise counterpart.

Boyd's character, Lonnie, is a young girl on the edge of adolescence who is too old for dolls and summer camp, but not quite old enough to throw away her training bra. Karen (Rainbow Harvest) is a dream come true to this awkward girl, as this sexy 14-year-old is everything Lonnie wants to be, or at least she thinks so.

Their friendship begins as a dare, as Karen wants Lonnie to steal some make-up from a local drug store. This action binds what is to become a close friendship, one that often displays their disparate backgrounds. Although director/writer Marisa Silver pushes this theme too hard at times, the girls' differences usually add spice to the story.

What really makes this film heartwarming is the girls' blossoming sexual awareness. Their growing pains are subtle, such as the terrible awkwardness Lonnie displays around Karen's flirtatious brother (Neill Barry.) But, when they become intrigued by the curvy, mysterious manicurist (Roxanne Hart) who moves into Karen's apartment building, they sneak into her apartment just to find out more about her. One can't help but smile at this, and the many moments in this film that are reminiscent of the pain, embarrassment and fun involved in growing up. (Quite a coup for Silver, a relatively unknown, independent filmmaker.)

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Every hotel, restaurant and dining establishment employs the services of a chef, many times one who is world renowned. His duties are similar or at least comparable to that of a composer of music, songs, operas or symphonies. Where notes of the musical scale are carefully selected so that a harmonious masterpiece is created, so too the master chef selects from many relishes, spices and herbs, and condiments that is created when mixed with food a delicious dinner fit for a king.

America is the singular finished product of a master chef, our Creator, who has blended together people of different countries, races and creeds into one homogeneous people, Americans.

My uncle, John Shea, didn't believe that theory because as a longshoreman hiring foreman many years ago on the Charlestown docks he would hire only Irishmen. One day a young man asked for a job. "Are you Irish?" asked Uncle John in a bellowing voice. "No," responded the young gentleman meekly, "but my grandmother is." "Good!" shouted John. "Tell your grandmother to report for work on Pier Four at five in the morning!"

A ghost and his ghoul friend were arrested last night for haunting without a license. Officer Al Pierce "spook" to them asking them "witch" city they were from. They told Al that they were from "Witchita" Kansas, but I personally believe it's "Eerie" Pennsylvania. They both looked like they were "two sheets to the wind" as they stopped at P&M locksmiths and asked to have "skeleton keys" made.

My wife and I went to a Halloween party and we both won first prize and we weren't even wearing masks or costumes.

A little kid came to my door with his mother and said,

"Twick or tweet!" I asked myself. "What harm can this little kid do?" So I told him "Twick." His mother stepped forward and said, "Listen here, Buster, how'dja like your gate yanked off its hinges?" Because I'm a devout coward I gave her all the popcorn and potato chips I had. Ten minutes later my wife Kathy said to me, "My hero, didn't you know we haven't got a gate or a fence either?" "Aw, that's alright, Kathy," I said, "You know I bruise easily."

Folks, I'm so grateful for being given the opportunity to write Woodchips, because I love to write and more important than that I meet and talk to so many really wonderful people. I meet them everywhere, at the Elks in Woburn, at Russell's Farm Stand or in the telephone calls I make to find out how and where I can improve this column.

I spoke to a fine gentleman, Mr. Howard Coombs, owner of Coombs' Furniture in Wilmington. I told Howard that when I got out of the Navy and got fired from my insurance agent's job I got a salesman's position in a furniture store. I sold a 'deacon's bench' to Wayne Higden for his church in Burlington; a 'pole lamp' to Mr. Mullen, Edison retiree; a 'feather duster' to Frank Perdue; and a 'coffee table' to my Aunt Maria to try to 'perk' her up. She asked me, "How are you doing?" "Oh, so far I'm doing good." "I see you're 'nutty' as usual." Anyway, thanks Howard, for being so kind.

After selling furniture to all my relatives and the few friends that I have, I decided to get another job. So I asked Matty Connelly (whose son, Paul, owns Haven Floor in Reading) if I could install carpets for him. "Well," he said, "you look 'rugged' enough, and I must say you're 'colorful,' but are you 'durable'?" "I must admit I'm not," I told him, "but thanks anyway, you are a gentleman, sir."

Folks, for 20 years my father and I built houses in the Middlesex East area. One day in June of '55, a young man asked for a job as a carpenter's helper. He told me he was entering Harvard in the fall and was trying to earn some of the tuition. I liked the young man's sincerity so he was hired. I've seen dynamos work on ships in the Navy — well, this carpenter's helper was a human dynamo. By the end of that summer, I became 'his' helper, he was that good. He worked for us three more summers and, graduating from Harvard, entered medical school. The following summer he sent his brother to take over his job as he, too, was going to enter Harvard. He was every bit as good as his older brother.

Well, folks, as Paul Harvey says on radio, "Here's the rest of the story." The first one is Peter Fanikos, M.D., a resident of Lynnfield who, with his lovely wife, Lee, have been blessed with a wonderful family of four boys. The younger carpenter's helper is Victor Fanikos, Attorney at Law, who lives in Danvers. I am happy that my father and I had a part, albeit a very small one, in the lives of these industrious young men.

Two others who I am proud of (and are readers of Woodchips) are Mr. Saul Ziner, CPA, and Dr. Joseph DiPietro, DMD, both of Lynnfield. Dr. DiPietro and I were in the Navy at about the same time. I recall when he retired from the 'dental corps' they gave him a '21-gum salute!' One of his shipmates, a dentist, was driving east from San Francisco, when in 'Bicuspid,'

New Mexico, he drove over a broken 'bridge' and plunged into a 'root canal.' He didn't sustain any injury but his car got a bent upper and lower license plate. He's too far away to 'crown' me, his office is in Iowa, but I'll send him a copy of Woodchips — I always do anyway.

I went into a clothing store in Burlington and the genial salesman asked me, "How would you like a suit with a 'belt' in the back?" I could see that he had a 'vested' interest in the store so I told him, "I would like a suit because you are known for good stylish clothes, but please, no belt in the back, I just sprained it at work."

Thank you, Rev. Martin Ryan, Pastor John Crispo, Andrea Carroll, Marge Fusco, and the choir and parishioners of St. Margaret's Church in Burlington, for your lovely letter.

'Three Sovereigns for Sarah'

PBS filming miniseries on North Shore

The Massachusetts Film Bureau today announced that filming is in progress in Salem, Danvers and surrounding North Shore communities on "Three Sovereigns For Sarah," an historically authentic dramatization of the 17th-century Salem witch trials. The three-part miniseries, produced by Nightowl Productions for PBS' American Playhouse, is directed by Phillip Leacock ("The Walton's," "Family," "Paper Chase," "Eight Is Enough") and stars Vanessa Redgrave as Sarah Cloyce; one of three sisters accused of witchcraft.

Salem and Danvers in many original period locations. Most notable is the Rebecca Nurse Homestead in Danvers where one of the film's central characters lived before being hung as a witch. An exact replica of the original Salem meetinghouse where the trials were held has been built on the Nurse property under the historical guidance of Richard Trask, Danvers Town Archivist. Other locations used in the film are: the Saugus Ironworks, the Ward House in Salem, Bradford Farm in Hamilton, and Hog Island in Ipswich harbor.

"Three Sovereigns For Sarah" is the eighth PBS American Playhouse to shoot on location in Massachusetts in the past three years. Three-time Emmy award nominee, "Concealed Enemies," shot in Boston and Cambridge last winter.

"Massachusetts is a virtual production haven for PBS and other productions where cost is a factor because it's economically advantageous to shoot here," said Film Bureau director Mary Lou Crane. "Producer realize they can hire locally, saving considerable cost, without sacrificing quality. Our production community is capable of complementing the most sophisticated productions," she added.

"Three Sovereigns For Sarah" is shooting principally in

This project marks the second time in little over a year that Vanessa Redgrave has starred in a film shot entirely on location in Massachusetts. She was last here in Merchant-Ivory's latest release, "The Bostonians," which shot in Boston and on Cape Cod the summer of 1983. She is joined on this film by two veteran lead actresses, Phyllis Thaxter ("superman," "World of Henry Orient," "Twilight Zone") and Kim Hunter ("Planet of the Apes," "Dark August," "A Streetcar Named Desire") who play her sisters Rebecca Nurse and Mary Easty, respectively.

Patrick McGeehan ("Secret Agent," "The Prisoner") plays the Chief Magistrate hearing Sarah's case. Ron Hunter ("Cagney and Lacey") is Samuel Nurse, The Reverend Parris is played by Boston actor Will Lyman.

Writer-Producer Vic Pisano, a native of Lynn, Massachusetts, spent almost two years researching town records of the 1690's while consulting with leading Massachusetts historians Steven Nissenbaum, Peter Cook and Lenn Bergsten to develop a script of historical integrity. He went so far as to add transcripts of the actual witch trials to certain scenes and have handwriting analyses taken from original manuscripts to get a better "read" into the personalities of key characters. Plymouth Plantation, a re-created 17th-century village, has loaned authentic period costumes and extinct New England farm animals used for labor in the mid-1600's to NightOwl for the production.

"Sarah is a Massachusetts production all the way. Three-quarters of our cast, crew and equipment are out of Boston," said producer Vic Pisano. Local suppliers secured by NightOwl are: Boston Camera Rental, The Casting Company, Duart Film Labs, Filmarts, Messenger's Catering and Stulgis & Pigott Set Construction.

Massachusetts production personnel working on the film include: Ann Gaydos, Associate Producer; Marc Levitt, Production Manager; Cathy Roszell Jones, Assistant Producer; Joe Foley, Location Manager; and Mike Haley, First Assistant Director. An additional 60 Massachusetts film personnel are employed in support capacities.

The project is funded through matching grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and PBS American Playhouse. In-kind contributions have been provided by: House of Seven Gables; Danvers Ford; Salem Chamber of Commerce; U.S. Army, Fort Devens Property Surplus; Andresson Movers; Concept Conventions; Sears Roebuck; and Westwood, Inc.

"Three Sovereigns For Sarah" is scheduled to air on PBS in May of 1985, concurrent with theatrical release in Europe.

Roving

A day in the life of our gallivanting-around correspondent:

Last Saturday was one of those days. I woke up feeling downright lousy. Sinus troubles again. They kick up about this time every fall when the air turns from mostly warm and humid to mostly chilly and dry.

I literally dragged myself out of bed, went to the bathroom. Glomped myself in the mirror. Yuck! Did I need something, anything, to make myself feel better. There was, frankly, no hope for looking better. At least not till mother nature did her thing and removed all those horrible-looking lines and shadows from my face. That usually took about two hours on a morning like this one.

Ended up taking a couple of aspirin, with Sprite. No juice in the frig.

Went back to bed, thought about what I had to get out of the way that day. Five or six pages of a script I was working on. Wouldn't hurt to pick up the house, I thought. Maybe vacuum, clean the bathroom, polish the furniture. Do some laundry.

The blazes with cleaning house. Maybe I'd call in a domestic engineer, pay her to do it for me. Laundry, now that was a different story. Dirty socks won't wait.

Out of bed again. Felt better now. The Bayers were doing the trick. Checked myself out in the bathroom mirror a second time. Nothing spectacular, but at least my eyes could focus on the narrow strip of sunlight slithering through the crack between the window frame and the shade without reacting as though they'd just seen a lazer light show.

Went to the living room, switched on the tv. A little background noise. Wiley Coyote was getting his derriere blasted off the screen in yet another foolish attempt to capture the ever-elusive Road Runner. Flipped the channel. A couple of fat hirsute giants were slamming each other around on a rubber mat inside a ring. Decided to change back to Wiley and the Road Runner. They don't talk. Really, it didn't matter. I'd never have the time to watch anyway. Guess I was desperate for some lived-in atmosphere that morning. You know how that can be.

Gathered some pants, few shirts a handful of towels and facecloths, and traipsed downstairs to the cellar, where I keep my washing machine-combination dryer. My Lady Kenmore in olive green stood against the middle of the wall, opposite the chimney and oil burner, waiting to do its duty, as it has for the last five years.

Dropped the door (it's a front-loading machine), piled in the dirty laundry, added a few ample squirts of Wisk, then flipped the door shut. Set the dial on its usual setting, turned on the machine. Started back upstairs, confident of the smooth-sounding whine behind me. I left the cellar door partly open, so I could keep track of the progress of my wash.

I was so confident that everything was O.K., in fact, that I laid back down again and nodded off the sleep. The last sound I heard was the beep-beep of the Road Runner as he zapped his old arch nemesis one more time.

When I finally re-awoke, I had no idea of how much time had passed. College football had replaced the Road Runner and Wiley Coyote.

My first realization that something wasn't right with my laundry was when Keri, my golden retriever, appeared at the bedroom door covered with white. She regarded me sheepishly (I've grown accustomed to that look every time she's done something bad) and then shook herself, sending the fluffy white stuff billowing through the air. The tiny soap suds finally settled like clumps of dust on the floor, the bed and on the night table next to the bed.

I hopped up, straining my ears all the way to the cellar door, trying to hear the whirring sound of the spin cycle or the clickety-click noise of buttons rapping against metal as the laundry tumbled its way through the dry cycle.

At the top of the stairs: nothing. Scurried down the stairs, oddly conscious of the sound of my bare feet slapping against wooden steps. The last thing I expected to see was a small sea of white covering about ten feet of the cellar floor in front of the machine. But I did. Maybe I'd died and gone to heaven.

I hadn't. I plowed through the white cloud thinking of how this mess reminded me of a scene from a crazy movie. Dropped the door open. More suds surged out of the silent beast. Hidden somewhere in there was my load of laundry.

My first reaction was to pull the stuff out and rinse them by hand, then let them dry on the clothesline outdoors. Maybe I used too much soap. I thought. Decided to begin the rinse cycle

dan ferullo

all over again. Maybe it would straighten itself out. Meanwhile, as the machine purred once more, I cleaned up the suds from the floor with a mop and bucket. When I finished I went upstairs to watch some football, wait for the cycle to end. Twenty-five minutes went by, with frequent checks at the door to see if the machine was running alright. Everything seemed fine, until suddenly I heard the machine

At Austin Prep Computer lab dedicated

Formal dedication ceremonies were held at Austin Preparatory School in Reading on September 15 for the school's new computer laboratory. The laboratory contains an Acorn Micro Computer system with 26 terminals. Parents, teachers, and trustees were able to experiment with the system after welcoming speeches by Headmaster Rev. Thomas C. Kenny, O.S.A., and other school officials.

Father Kenny introduced Austin trustee James Connolly of Andover, who spoke of the new system as a symbol of the school's commitment to the future. Acorn was represented by Joseph Black of Great Britain, their Senior Vice President in charge of marketing. Although Acorn computers have been on the American market for only a year, they have been sold in Britain since 1963.

Dean of Studies Thomas T. Enright expressed his appreciation for the work of the faculty's Computer Committee, which spent a year investigating the field, and determining which system would be best for Austin. During the ceremonies special gratitude was also expressed for the generosity of the members of the Headmaster's Circle and the work of Development Director Andrea Olin-Gomes.

The talks were followed by a half-hour demonstration of the system's capabilities. Visitors at each of the 26 terminals were able to independently experiment with programs that included testing exercises, full-color graphics, games, and even musical scales. Austin seniors Scott Best of Woburn and Mark Solomon of Burlington were on hand to help guests deal with the system. Solomon recently spent six weeks at the High School Science Student Institute of Indiana University working on a research project in "Creation of a Data Base in the Pascal Computer Programming Language."

Austin Prep this year

inaugurates a one-semester required course in computers for all juniors, and offers other courses in the field as well. The school intends to prepare students for the college-level Advanced Placement exam in computer programming. A new extra-curricular Computer Club for all students provides an opportunity for students to become familiar with the latest advances in hardware and software. Father Kenny pointed out that Austin's continuing emphasis on the humanities and social sciences in the form of required and elective courses will ensure that the new advances in math and science become part of a well-balanced curriculum.

The Acorn BBC is an educational micro computer that already has a great deal of software. Since it has dual-language capability, either Pascal or Basic may be used on each terminal independently of the rest of the system. Each terminal includes an all-color monitor with an 80-column display, as well as arcade-quality graphics. Also included are such features as a word processor and the ability to communicate between individual terminals.

All terminals can be used in a network or independently. The dedication ceremonies were followed by a reception in the school hall.

Construction industry scholarships

Construction industry scholarship applications are available for high school seniors, college freshmen, sophomores and juniors enrolled or planning to enroll in four-year construction and civil engineering degree programs. Winners in the annual competition, sponsored by The Associated General Contractors of America (AGC) Education and Research Foundation, may be eligible for grants of up to $6,000 over a four-year period of full-time undergraduate study.

College seniors or others planning to enroll in a full-time master's level construction or civil engineering program for the fall 1985 term may compete for the Saul Horowitz Jr. Memorial Graduate Award. The recipient of the award is eligible for $5,000 in assistance for the duration of graduate study.

Massachusetts students may obtain applications by writing to the Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts, Inc., 888 Worcester Street, Wellesley, Ma: 02181. All completed applications and attachments must be received in the AGC of America office in Washington, D.C. by November 15, 1984.

Roving From S-11

click off prematurely. The rinse, spin and dry cycles never finished that quickly.

Rushed downstairs, only to discover that once again the machine was gushing out a sea of white stuff onto the floor. Keri was the only one getting a kick out of the mess, since she could play in it. I didn't find it so amusing.

At this point I made a very dumb decision: I reset the dial and began the machine on yet another run-through. As I cleaned up the suds the second time, I figured the excess soap in the machine had to work its way out this time.

I couldn't have been more wrong. The third cycle finished up even faster than the previous one. The soap was oozing out the sides of the door when the dial registered that the machine was on the dry cycle. I knew it was time to call the repair man.

And to pull the laundry out and lug it upstairs, dripping wet and loaded with suds, to the bathroom, where I would have to rinse it and ring it out by hand and then hang it outside on the clothesline to dry.

That night I wore a pair of pants and a shirt that I had washed by hand, just to see how they felt. Not too good. I'd left enough soap in them to cover their next two washes. I prayed that it wouldn't rain.

I'd had enough lived-in atmosphere for one day, which, as I said, was just one of those days.

Reading's Dennis Brearley

Photography is his life

By JIM ROUILLARD

His world is so beguiling he says he gets lost in it, which is not surprising for so, I think, could each of us.

He's Dennis Michael Brearley of Reading, Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer, who lives on buckets of coffee, small amounts of sleep — and an absolute love for his work.

Dennis has amassed thousands of rare celluloid and glass-plate negatives, which he turns into choice, hand-made prints. They comprise the Brearley Collection — whose elements, though they represent historical reality, approach the mythic — in their variety of famous people and events.

Brearley's archives incorporate a New England past of almost totally vanished beauty and poignance — with the photographer's own life story also something of a dream, involving elements of struggle and success.

A former photojournalist (for 18 years,) the 39-year-old Brearley has a gallery in Boston's Quincy Market, "The Negative Side," which enables historians, sports buffs, researchers and tourists to see aspects of both the last century and the not-so-distant past.

The Brearley Collection provides extensive glimpses into a Boston and a New England that some may remember and more may wish they remember, with evocation of past and present — in sports, family life, the arts, politics, and more.

A man who argues that "we've got to stress the commonality of our interests — because our strength is in our diversity, not in our division," Brearley said he likes to bring people together — and the scenes in his collection help to do just that, by demonstrating the diversity that is Boston, New England, and the nation itself.

The scenes range from plain, unadorned poverty (city youngsters in thin tatters and wide grins) — to the halls of privilege (a placid, inscrutable Albert Einstein receiving honors at Harvard Yard.) Yet all are invested with an almost palpable vitality and detail.

They include a 1920 winter scene on Boston Common which translates to total elegance the figure of a full-skirted woman beneath the Common's ancient, vase-shaped elms. For backdrop, the Bulfinch State House looms like a mighty Russian cathedral in the sepia-toned snow.

Brearley's archives contain the Sudbury schoolroom of Miss Lillian Pratt, with hickory stick pointer, in 1889 — Revere Beach in 1900 — Boston's Fish Pier in 1924, with horse-drawn sleighs and ice clotted thick on the fishing boats' rigging.

There are Babe Ruth in 1935 — a very youthful Frank Sinatra, 1943 — and the fabulous, fur-clad Marilyn Monroe with Joe DiMaggio in Boston in 1954.

And there are events: a 1920 Boston Navy Yard strike — the Sacco-Vanzetti "Tragedy" in Dedham" 1927 — and the passage, in 1937, over Boston's Customs House Tower, of the von Hindenburg dirigible, just hours before its fiery explosion and destruction at Lakehurst, New Jersey.

There are Kennedys, Roosevelts and Lindberghs.

And there are those who weren't so famous: train engineers, policemen, and deer-hunters from 1935, still clad from the woods, rifles at rest, the venison draped over the hood of their car.

But there's more than the far past.

There are also memories within reach of the young and middle-aged as well: Dennis Brearley's own portrait of the Beatles during their 1964 visit to Boston — his brilliant sports shots of the Celtics and the Bruins in the 1970s — and his photo of a tearful Carl Yastrzemski on Yaz Day, at Fenway Park, October, 1983, unpublished, until today, through Brearley's courtesy to Middlesex East.

Since Brearley's retirement from photojournalism in 1978 (the year he won the Pulitzer for his photos of the Great Blizzard) and his decision to develop his own business, he said his success has been explosive, and "I like being successful — who wouldn't — yet I am convinced that it is not money which constitutes success — but that with the right type of success, the money comes as a kind of corollary, an added bonus.

"What really makes success is coming out of your shell and letting people know who you are."

However defined, Brearley's success is tangible.

Other Brearley achievements include consultant work, and the use of his prints to recreate scenes for the movie "The Brinks Robbery," with Peter Falk.

Also, the bulk of the filming of an hour-long television documentary produced by NBC, "The Streets of Gold," was done at Brearley's former Lewis Wharf gallery. The film, based on the great Irish immigration to America, included many of Brearley's prints, of factories, tenements, street scenes, and disembarking immigrants.

He said he also supplied work for actor/director Paul Newman for the movie "The Verdict," but "I didn't see my pictures because the barroom scene where they were used was very dark," though Newman and Joanne Woodward did spend a lot of money in the gallery.

He said his clients and visitors have also included actress Mary Tyler Moore, actor Tony Roberts, musician Joseph Silverstein and Caroline Kennedy.

HUMAN RESOURCES ASSISTANTS

Consider joining a growth oriented computer systems company which merged its resources with Eastman Kodak in 1981 to maintain its leadership in the electronic publishing industry.

Consider the advantages of working within a creative and supportive environment where you receive knowledge for your ideas.

Consider the opportunity to work in a friendly and progressive human resources organization with a staff of talented professional colleagues.

We are currently looking for several self-motivated individuals to provide secretarial and administrative support to our Employee Relations group. Responsibilities include: typing, filing, generating reports, scheduling appointments, mail distribution, maintaining internal job posting, administering employee referral program, and the opportunity to learn state-of-the-art text processing systems.

Qualified candidates should possess excellent organizational and communication skills, the ability to handle confidential information and work with minimum supervision, as well as type 50-60 WPM. Word processing and/or personal computer experience a plus, however we will train the right person. 1 to 2 years office experience is ideal.

Consider The Atex Advantage . . .

Some people say
It's beyond words.

Atex offers 100% tuition reimbursement, company paid dental and medical coverage, together with health programs, and a fitness training center for our employees. Please send resume to Rhonda Michelson, Human Resources Department.

Fall's sweet song

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Sweet Adelines, Inc.

The Merrimack Valley Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc. of Andover are celebrating their 10th Anniversary with a spectacular Annual Show, to be held November 3. For the first time, there will be two shows, a matinee at 2 PM and the evening performance at 8 PM (followed by an After Glow show) at the Tenney Middle School in Methuen.

In addition to the Chorus, there will be special appearances by two exceptional quartets: Boston Common, past International Men's Champions, and Pandemonium, a marvelous women's quartet, famous for creating exactly what the name implies.

This year's show, "Flash-back", will be a combination of past performances revisited, some special comedy material, and a look into the future, presenting routines to be seen in the 1985 Region I Competition.

Information on tickets, which are $6/show and can be obtained from Jan McLellan, 681-7800 or can be purchased at the door. There are reduced rates for children and Senior Citizens at the matinee show.

Habitat solar tour

On Saturday, November 3, Habitat of Belmont will co-sponsor a self-guided tour called "Living With The Sun: Solar House Tour", together with Drumlin Farm, Broadmoor Wildlife Sanctuary, Endicott Regional Center, and the Urban Solar Energy Association. Spend a day discovering the ways in which your neighbors have incorporated active and passive solar systems into their homes. Tour approximately 20 houses which are clustered in or near the towns of Natick, Newton, Concord and Cambridge. The tour is from 10 AM to 4 PM, and the fee is $7.

For more information, call the Habitat Institute for the Environment at 489-3850.

Essex County on display

Living Landscapes, a series of walks to sites of natural interest in Essex County, will continue throughout the month of November. The walks will be led by Sarah Foster Robbins of the museum.

November 7 - a walk through the Georgetown State Forest, Boxford, to see the location of an old passenger pigeon ring. November 14 - a walk to the wolf pits in the Lynn Woods, exploring the powerline right of way. November 28 - a study of the ground plans and planting of the Crane Estate, Ipswich, with a tour of the house.

Living Landscapes walks are from 9:30 AM to 11:30 AM. Directions to meeting places furnished at the time of registration, and prior registration is required. Members $12; non-members $16 (single walks $3.50/$5). Call 745-1876 to register or for further information.

Champagne Peach Bowl

The Winchester High School Marching Band, with over 200 musicians, flag and rifle corps, tumblers and cheerleaders, has been chosen to participate in the Peach Bowl Festival in Atlanta, Georgia Dec. 28 to 31. To raise the $50,000 required for the trip, a number of fundraisers are planned.

On November 7, from 7-9 PM, a Champagne Peach Bowl Reception at the Winchester Knights of Columbus will feature a brief program by the band under the direction of a guest conductor. Tickets at $15 are available at Craddock's, Henderson's, Winchester Ltd. Jewelers and Winchester TV and Appliance and by calling 729-7823. Information for donations is available at 729-1966.

Boston Bluegrass Union

Dry Branch is Coming

To kick off this year's bluegrass music season, The Boston Bluegrass Union has an exciting evening planned for you, by presenting Ohio's one and only DRY BRANCH

FIRE SQUAD, along with Boston's AMAZING TEXAS INSTRUMENTS, Sun., Nov. 11 at 7 PM in Paine Hall at Harvard University.

For more information, call 661-0214 or 461-1549. Tickets are available for $8 at the door, $7 in advance from Sandy's Music or the Music Emporium in Cambridge, and Clyde's in Concord.

From Barbershop harmony to the rolling sounds of bluegrass, from a trip to the Peach Bowl to a tour of solar homes, COMING ATTRACTIONS tries to bring out a variety of adventures for everyone. But we miss a few and welcome your help in bringing out events of interest to all. If you have knowledge of such events, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We almost survive on harmonies alone but we seek just about everything under the sun.

Photographer from S-13

As for Brearley himself, he said his childhood was shaped partially by adversity. His father, Clarence Brearley, became seriously ill when Dennis was nine, and died four years later. Dennis said he started work at age nine, and turned in his money to his mother, Catherine (Moroney), who scrubbed floors at Harvard to keep the family intact.

"I feel that the way she kept us together as a family taught us well and helped each of us succeed," he said.

A rabid sports fan from childhood, Brearley said he cut his teeth on baseball, crossing the old railroad yards (where the Prudential Center now stands) to get from Allston-Brighton where he grew up, to the Valhalla of Fenway Park where the mighty heroes dwelled — and he knew just which door to watch to see them emerge.

In 1960, he started work as a copy boy at the old Record-American, at a salary of $39.06 per week. His interest in photography soon blossomed into an apprenticeship which finally led him to mix with his heroes, photograph their prowess, and witness, first-hand, their strengths, successes, and failures.

Yet he felt changes in the wind, in himself and in the newspaper industry in the very year he won the Pulitzer. "Somehow along the line I've learned to trust my instincts," he said.

"In 1978 it was just bursting inside me, a confidence that told me: 'I'm psyched — I know I can do it. I'm leaving to try to make it on my own.'"

Within two years after Brearley left, he said, the newspaper began laying people off.

What led Brearley to his insight and his confidence that he could do it?

"All I know is that you have to find the path yourself," he said. "No-one is going to come into a room and point at people and say: 'You, you and you will make it.' The way, the path to surety is within yourself."

"Now, anyone can take a picture and make a copy negative. But I want the original guy's work — I want what the man himself created — that's why I've accumulated these negatives. When you take something from me, you have an original, something that appreciates in value."

Talking with Dennis Brearley while he works in his studio, watching the images of famous figures in sports and politics emerge from the developer bath: figures like the Celtics' Jim Luskoff or Eleanor Roosevelt — or seeing him mat a blow-up of his friend and client, the great Red Sox slugger Ted Williams, his love for his work is manifest, "because it's in harmony with what I've done all my life."

Dennis and his wife, Susan, have two sons, who are as rabid

'Dream' to appear at Collin's Center

"This Dream should appeal especially to children. But the very literal interpretation of the play is intelligent and consistent enough to engage adults as well."

Thus writes the New York Times regarding Shakespeare and Company's A Midsummer Night's Dream, appearing for one performance only at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Rd., Andover on Saturday, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m.

Shakespeare & Co. will be making a return appearance to the Collins Center following a very successful and well received production of Romeo & Juliet to an audience of nearly 1,200 high and junior high school students.

This A Midsummer Night's Dream is acted in the broad physical style of an adventure movie. In this lucid, broadly comic production, romance is strictly a game for fools.

Under the direction of Tina Packer, Shakespeare & Co.'s Midsummer Night's Dream is completing a New England tour and has played to sold-out audiences at nearly every stop.

Admission for this fascinating Shakespearean production is $14.50 and $12.50 and $7. and $8 for children. Tickets are available at the Collins Center Box Office, open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. On Saturday, Nov. 3 the box office will be open from 12 noon through show time.

Tickets may also be purchased at the Andover and North Andover branches of Andover Savings Bank; and at "Just For You," 36 Main St., Andover.

For group ticket information, please call the Collins Center at 470-1905.

in their love of baseball as their father, each with his own particular hero. For 11-year-old Dennis Jr., it's Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs. For Matthew, eight, it's the "batting ace, the hitting guru," Jim Rice.

Just before the Sox's spring training this year, in fact, Brearley said, Dennis Jr. spotted Wade Boggs in a limousine which was stopped in Kenmore Square — and he got so excited he started screaming: "It's Wade Boggs! Wade Boggs!" as he jumped up and down in the middle of a temporary traffic jam on Commonwealth Avenue. The boy's excitement was so intense, Brearley said, that young Dennis forgot to grab a baseball from Brearley's car (there were several in the back seat) to get Boggs' autograph. By the time he thought of it, Boggs' limousine had moved on.

But the tale ends happily, because Dennis Jr. later got an autographed photo from Boggs, with a personal message. As for the younger boy, Matt, Brearley said, Red Sox Vice President and Director of Public Relations

George Sullivan really loves to rapid-fire the names of ball-players at Matt because the boy can produce the players' exact stats quicker than any computer.

Dennis and Susan said the whole family love suburban Reading where they have lived now for three years. As for Dennis Sr., he said he doesn't miss Boston in the least — and even dreads going into the city at times, agreeing with William Blake's assessment of cities in general (in Blake's case, 18th-century London):

"I wander through each chartered street,

Near where the chartered Thames does flow,

And mark in every face I meet,

Marks of weakness, marks of woe."

Of course, there are no marks of weakness or woe in the Brearley household, except, occasionally, when one of the boys fails to meet his respective baseball hero.
